City Head Pays 2 Kidnapers to Free Daughter

$30,000 Obtains Safe Return of Girl in Short Time.

Abducted From Bath in Fine Kansas City Home.

Kansas City, May 28 (A.P.).—Miss Mary McElroy, 25, was ransomed from the hands of kidnapers today by her father, H. F. McElroy, city manager of Kansas City, Mo.

She was abducted by two men at 11 a. m. yesterday from the fashionable McElroy home in the country club district.

McElroy and his son, Henry F. McElroy, jr., 23, made contact with the kidnapers this afternoon on a lonely road in Wyandotte County, Kans., across the State line. They handed over a package containing $30,000 in bills, on the promise that Miss McElroy would be freed within two hours.

Unharmed But Exhausted.

The girl appeared at the Milburn Golf Club about 4 p. m.

She was unharmed, but appeared exhausted. She said her abductors released her from a car at the gate entering the club grounds. Her father was notified immediately and went to the club for her.

Ransom of $60,000 had been demanded at first. News of the kidnaping was withheld until the girl's safety was assured.

The kidnapers had threatened to kill her if police or newspapers were notified.

Police Work Quietly.

The newspapers learned of the abduction shortly after it occurred, but published nothing until she was safe. Police and other authorities worked quietly, but at McElroy's request remained more or less on the sidelines while the father conducted the negotiations.

Two unmasked gunmen forced Miss McElroy to leave her bath yesterday, dress and accompany them in a large sedan.

The two men who collected the ransom today were masked. From descriptions given by McElroy it was believed they were the same two who seized the girl yesterday.

As they left the home they instructed Miss Heda Christensen, housekeeper and maid, to tell the city manager his daughter had been kidnaped and would be killed if he refused to comply with their demands, or permitted newspapers to learn of the abduction.

Expected Little Girl.

They gave no directions at that time for complying with the ransom demand.

Apparently the kidnapers thought their intended victim was a small child when they entered the McElroy home by brushing boldly by a maid who answered the door bell.

"Where is the little girl?" they asked.

"She's taking a bath," the maid replied.

The two men went to the bathroom, knocked on the door and demanded

FANCY CORPORATION PAY CUT BY R. F. C.

Borrowers Are Compelled to Show That Salaries Are Not Excessive.

(Associated Press.)

Executives of corporations who obtain loans for their companies from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation hereafter must take reductions in salaries or prove that their compensation is not excessive.

This rule, an outgrowth of efforts in Congress to require limitation of salaries paid by companies which receive Government loans, was laid down yesterday by Jesse H. Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. It was applied last week in the case of the Southern Pacific Co., which received loans totaling $23,200,000.

The Southern Pacific, always noted for paying handsome salaries to its officers and executives, who operate one of the greatest transportation systems in the country, was required to reduce executive salaries by from 10 to 60 per cent.

The scale of reductions as laid down by the corporation in this specific case was 60 per cent including previous reductions, for all salaries of $100,000 or more per year; 50 per cent for salaries from $50,000 to $100,000; 40 per cent from $35,000 to $50,000; 25 per cent from $15,000 to $25,000; 15 per cent from $10,000 to $15,000, and at least 10 per cent for salaries and wages from $4,800 to $10,000. Reductions already made in salaries and wages are to be included in the reductions required by the corporation.

Contracts of the railroad brotherhoods and other unions which deal with the Southern Pacific, which runs, besides its railroad and steamship lines, a number of bus lines and a hotel system and has other interests, are not affected. Higher salaried officials of the Southern Pacific already have taken cuts of approximately 25 per cent.

The Southern Pacific agreement provided that in the event Congress

Murder Charged To Three Cubans

Miami, Fla., May 28 (A.P.).—Three Cuban political refugees today were charged in Federal warrants issued here with the murder last September 27, in Havana, of Clemente Vazques Bello, president of the Cuban Senate.

The warrants were issued by G. R. Short, United States commissioner, upon application of the Cuban consulate here. The defendants named were Luis Barreras, Guillermo Barrientos and Alfredo Botet.

Federal authorities said they did not know the present whereabouts of the Cubans. Sources in the Cuban refugee colony, however, said the men recently left here for New York.

AMERICAN PLAN FOR ECONOMIC PARLEY SHAPED

Hull Sees Obstacles and Hard Work Ahead of Delegation.

(Associated Press.)

A definite American program for international action at the World Economic Conference took shape last night as the delegation—still incomplete—packed trunks for the departure toward London Wednesday.

World developments, meanwhile, were gravely surveyed by Secretary Cordell Hull and his fellow officials, all of whom refrained from optimistic public predictions and privately conceded that plenty of hard work and headaches are ahead at London.

Besides seeking stabilized exchanges and universally lowered trade barriers at London, President Roosevelt's representatives will seek action to accomplish on a world-wide scale what is already under way here.

Unified Price Action Sought.

The United States will endeavor to enlist other nations in the bold price-raising program launched in this country by virtue of the Roosevelt monetary, farm relief and industrial recovery legislation.

Although there will be no attempt to dictate details of domestic measures to foreign governments, the Roosevelt policies are regarded here as requiring either unified international action or a new and highly significant policy of isolation in order that this country may work out its domestic plan without interference.

Accordingly, the administration is equipping itself with legislative measures with which it may either cooperate with the rest of the world, if the other nations are so inclined, or may rear new barriers around this country's far-flung economic frontiers.

Flexible Tariff Bill Seen.

The most powerful weapon to be wielded by the United States during the conference, is yet to be forged, the administration tariff bill. Indications are that it will be two-edged, carrying authority for the executive either to raise tariffs or to lower them. The President plans to send it to Capitol Hill this week.

The view has been advanced in influential quarters that the vast industrial control bill now in the House will require higher tariffs to protect the higher American wage and price standard it would foster, but the President does not believe this necessary, provided prices abroad are raised equally with those here.

Other points in the American plan are vast public works construction programs in all countries similar to the steps being undertaken here, credit expansion through central bank action along the same lines as the Federal Reserve banks' purchase of Government bonds, and control of production of basic commodities, wheat, for example—by some such governmental action as that made possible here by the new farm relief bill.

These moves are aimed at simultaneous world-wide attack on unem-

Ellsworth, Me., Visited Again by Incendiaries

Ellsworth, Me., May 28 (A.P.).—A fire which authorities believed was set early today threatened the buildings of the Hancock Fair Association on the outskirts of this city, which was devastated by a $2,000,000 incendiary blaze three week ago tonight.

Fourteen of the 50 horse stalls at the fair grounds were destroyed.

Danzig Nazi

Hitlerites Win Election to Control Senate; Poland Is Anxious.

Free City of Danzig, May 28 (A.P.).—The Nazi party polled 107,619 votes to get a clear majority of the 215,135 votes cast today in the election of a new Volkstag for the Free City of Danzig.

This represented a 323 per cent increase for the Hitlerites over their total vote in the last election, November 16, 1930.

The Nazis and their allies, the Young Germans, polled a total of 109,296 votes. This represents 50.8 per cent of the vote entitling the Nazis to elect Hermann Rauschning as new president of the Senate. He would succeed Dr. Ernest Ziehm.

(The Senate constitutes the government of the free city, ruling under the direction of the League of Nations commissionship. The Socialists were dominant in the last Senate, elected by the Volkstag, or Parliament.)

The Nazi party chiselled votes today from all eight of its opponents except the Centrists, who showed a slight increase.

The Socialists, Communists and National Front party all lost heavily.

GIRL, 8, MURDERED IN W., B. & A. YARDS

Corpse Found in Baltimore After She Was Seen With Old Man.

Special to The Washington Post.

Baltimore, Md., May 28.—A little girl, hardly 8 years old, found dead in the Washington, Baltimore & Annapolis railroad yards here early today, presented a grotesque mystery to Maryland authorities tonight as they sought to grasp any faint clew which might lead to solution of what is believed to be a brutal murder.

Unidentified for several hours, the child, Margaret Lowe, lay in the city morgue while police first turned to Washington for a possible lead in tracking down clews in the crime. A search of missing persons records both here and in Washington failed to reveal a child answering her description. The girl's identity was learned shortly before midnight when her parents reported her disappearance.

Little Mary was found lying near the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad tracks, which also run through the yards, by three tramps. Police were immediately notified, and lengthy questioning of the tramps convinced detectives they knew nothing of the crime.

Mary's parents said she left home about 2 p. m. Saturday. Friends later reported seeing her in downtown Baltimore in company with an elderly man.

The clothes she wore when found did not belong to Mary, her parents told police. She was clad in pink beach pajamas and openwork shoes. When last seen she was wearing a dress, police were told.

Physicians said the little girl had been dead about twelve hours. The body bore no outward marks of violence and the cause of death was not immediately determined.

Workers in the yard could shed no light on how the child's body came to be there.

SEVERE STORM SHAKES YACHT OF ROOSEVELT

President Remains Calm, but Guests Show Alarm in Gale.

(Associated Press.)

It was revealed last night that President Roosevelt and his guests rode out one of the most severe storms that has struck the Potomac in recent years and battled the waves for more than an hour in an atmosphere of real concern.

The storm, accompanied by lightning and wind of almost gale force, struck the Sequoia, Government yacht, Saturday night about 8 o'clock far down the Potomac.

The small, trim craft rolled and tossed in the battle with the elements. Dinner being served at the time was interrupted. The table was quickly deserted by the guests.

Aided by River Width.

Mr. Roosevelt himself is an expert navigator. He had with him, of course, an able captain. Neither the President nor the captain would admit last night of any alarm or real danger, but their view was not wholly shared by some of the others who were aboard the Sequoia.

Complete darkness added to the difficulties in fighting the storm, but fortunately the river at that point was wide and straight.

In the opinion of several of those aboard, the Sequoia was somewhat at the mercy of the wind and rain for a while, but after a contest of about 40 minutes the situation was declared safer.

Guests Frightened.

The President, who is a lover of the sea and a veteran in handling water craft, was inclined to make light of the incident last night. His guests had complete confidence in him, but some admitted that they were rather frightened at the time. James Roosevelt, jr., eldest son of the President, and his wife joined the party on the cruise, arriving by seaplane early yesterday morning to board the yacht.

Other guests, who boarded the Sequoia last night at Quantico, Va., with the President included Secretary and Mrs. Woodin and Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cary T. Grayson.

The yacht docked at the Navy Yard here shortly before 9 o'clock last night and the party on board rode directly to the White House.

Gandhi Holding Ground On Eve of Fast's End

Poona, India, May 28 (A.P.).—The Mahatma Gandhi was said by his medical advisers today to be holding his ground and almost certain to survive his three weeks' fast, which ends at noon tomorrow.

The Indian leader, who began May 8 his abstinence from food as a protest against "untouchability," began his day of silence at noon today. At the end of the day of silence he will break his fast.

Swiss May Be Forced To Leave Gold Standard

Geneva, May 28 (U.P.).—Switzerland may be forced to abandon the gold standard, competent advisers said tonight.

The turn was indicated following a heated popular referendum during which the nation voted against a projected law reducing salaries of 60,000 federal employes 7½ per cent. The measure was intended to overcome a heavy national deficit.

118 Ship Passengers Safe On Shore Following Wreck

Victims of Great Lakes Crash Spend Night in Cold Fog at Remote Lighthouse Before Being Taken Aboard Coast Guard Cutter.

Houghton, Mich., May 28 (A.P.).—One hundred and eighteen persons, victims of the first Great Lakes disaster of the season, returned to shore here this afternoon after a night spent in the cold fog of barren Rock of Ages Reef in Lake Superior, following the grounding and wrecking of the passenger steamer George M. Cox late yesterday.

The Coast Guard cutter Crawford, which had put out early today, brought to Houghton all but 6 of the 124 persons aboard the steamer, which crashed while en route to Port Arthur, Ontario, from Chicago to pick up 250 Canadian residents and take them to the Century of Progress Exposition.

Four injured crew members and George M. Cox, of New Orleans, one of the owners and a nurse, were taken to Fort William, Ontario, by the freighter M. S. Tremaine, which, with Coast Guard craft, responded to distress calls last night.

The 32 passengers lost all their personal effects.

Capt. George Johnson, of Traverse City, Mich., veteran Great Lakes shipmaster, who commanded the steamer, said today: "We hit a reef while going at a speed of 17 knots. The impact was severe, causing a large hole to be torn in her side. It listed to 90 degrees and the ship's stern submerged in about four minutes."

The wreck occurred at 5:15 p. m. yesterday while the passengers were at dinner. Plowing through a heavy fog, the steamer struck an extended ledge of rock with such force that her engines and boilers were ripped loose. The impact threw passengers

Senate Investigators Seek More Data From Morgan.

Millions in Profits Are Reported on Many Stock Pools.

(Copyright, 1933, by the Associated Press.)

Senate investigators were disclosed yesterday to have asked J. P. Morgan & Co. to submit additional information about several score of stock syndicate and joint account operations in which the company reported participating from 1927 to 1931.

In its original report to the investigators, it was revealed yesterday, the house of Morgan reported operations in more than 50 pools, syndicates and joint accounts during the five-year period.

Only the barest details of the operations were given the Senate committee agents by the famous banking firm. An additional questionnaire, therefore, was decided upon, asking for more information.

Millions in Profits Shown.

Profits of several millions of dollars in these transactions were reported by the Morgan firm. Committee investigators, however, are preparing to submit a carefully checked total, including any stock retained by the firm as a result of the operations.

Whatever these profits may have amounted to, they were in addition to the $18,000,000 in profits disclosed Saturday for the five-year period, as arising from the flotation of securities.

As the extent of these syndicate or joint account operations became known yesterday, reverberations from previous disclosures in the investigations continued.

Davis Probe Sought.

Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, announced he would introduce today a resolution calling for an investigation of the business relations of Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador at Large. Davis was on one of the favored Morgan client lists and also was shown to have borrowed $75,000 from the international firm.

The Massachusetts representative, noted as a big game hunter, charged that Davis "has been under personal obligation to J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., the fiscal agent of the British government."

Representative Vinson, of Kentucky, Democratic member of the House Ways and Means Committee, issued a statement saying that that committee shortly would initiate an investigation into administrative features of the income tax law "to plug such holes as may be discovered."

Pecora and Staff Busy.

Meanwhile, Secretary Woodin, who was on two of the favored client lists

Residents Ousted By Bomb's Fumes

A tear gas bomb, tossed from a passing automobile, brought residents in the vicinity of Lyon Park station in Arlington County, Va., to the streets early today. Police are seeking to learn the identity of occupants of the machine, which sped through the village at a high rate of speed.

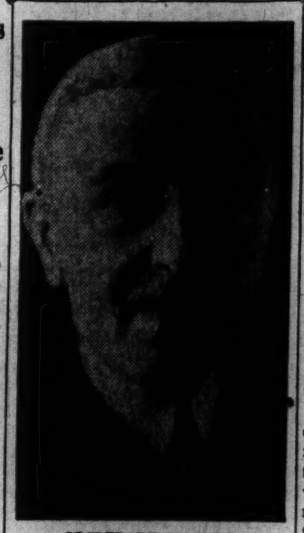
The bomb, of the type used by police, was picked up from the street by George J. Cost, in front of whose store it was thrown. The Arlington County Rescue Squad was summoned after residents fled coughing and sputtering from their homes.

Policemen Edward Duncan and William Brown took the bomb to the Arlington County Jail for examination. It bore the markings: Lot No. 8.000-1.

200 Chinese Prisoners Escape Manchukuo Jail

Tokyo, May 28 (A.P.).—A Rengo (Japanese) News Agency dispatch from Changchun, Manchuria, reported today that 200 Chinese prisoners, mostly political prisoners effected a wholesale delivery from the Manchukuo jail at Changchun.

The prisoners are said to have overpowered the guards and smashed doors and windows to make their escape. So far nine have been recaptured.



SECRETARY WOODIN.

TREASURY TO FIGHT FOR NEW GOLD LAW

Impending Huge Financing to Make Abolition of Standard Vital, Is Claim.

(Associated Press.)

The powerful weight of the Treasury Department was thrown last night behind the administration's proposal to do away with the gold clause in public and private contracts.

As Democratic leaders planned to have the measure brought up in the House today, they received word from Dean Acheson, new Undersecretary of the Treasury, that enactment was imperative in view of the department's plans for a huge financial operation, probably in June.

The resolution, approved speedily Saturday by the Senate and House Banking Committees, was described by administration officials as clearing away all doubt as to whether any form of legal currency or coin may satisfy holders of Government or private gold bonds.

About $2,000,000,000 of the Government's $22,000,000,000 of indebtedness is to be refinanced. In view of the gold situation, the Government does not desire to include in the new bonds the clause that they will be redeemable in gold.

By Executive order, gold metal and certificates have been impounded by the President, and it is unlawful for individuals to have more than $100 in the yellow metal or yellow-back certificates.

The Treasury takes the view, according to members of the banking committees, that it would be useless to insert the gold clause into the new bonds, since the country "is off the gold standard, anyway."

The measure is designed to remove any doubt and to avoid confusion, giving debtors and creditors a clear definition of their legal positions and making clear that future obligations, both public and private, will not contain the gold clause.

Four hours of debate are to be allowed on the measure in the House. In addition, amendments are to be allowed. It was indicated, therefore,

Couple Are Saved At Memorial Span

Quick action on the part of attendants at Arlington Memorial Bridge last night saved the lives of a man and his wife, thrown into the Potomac when their canoe capsized.

Paddling about near the bridge, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Eury, of 1717 West Virginia avenue northeast, were thrown into the water when their small canoe upset as they attempted to change seats. Eury, who is 23, was seized with cramps and sank. His 18-year-old wife attempted to aid him, meanwhile shouting for aid.

J. F. Williams and F. A. Striplin, attendants at the bridge, attracted by the woman's screams, hurried to the rescue in a small motor launch. They succeeded in bringing the couple to shore. At Emergency Hospital their conditions were said to be not serious.

Secretary of Treasury, Gives Views After River Cruise.

Roosevelt Is Believed Standing by Friend Despite Probe.

(Associated Press.)

Secretary Woodin informed newspapermen last night after a week-end cruise with President Roosevelt down the Potomac River that he "intended to continue" as head of the Treasury.

He was asked this as a result of speculation arising from testimony in the Senate inquiry into the affairs of J. P. Morgan & Co. which showed that he and other notables in 1929 were on the favorite subscriber lists of the company for purchase of new stocks at bargain prices.

The genial Treasury Secretary left no doubt, however, that he would be willing to retire from public life if he thought he might be standing in the way of what he regards as a definite trend for return of good times.

Hopes for Future Freedom.

For the present, however, he said simply: "I have not resigned."

It also became known that he had not been "fired."

There was no doubt also that Woodin, who retired as president of the American Car & Foundry Co. at the command of the President to take the Treasury post, almost on the eve of March 4, had made it clear to his chief that he hoped to be free at some time in the future.

It is the conviction of observers here that Mr. Roosevelt is standing firmly by the friend he called upon to help deal with an emergency and that Woodin will go through the emergency period.

Morgan Hearings Discussed.

Of course the Morgan hearings were brought up during the week-end cruise down the Potomac River, Woodin himself brought up the subject.

His friends say he has followed the trend of the investigation and is prepared to make a statement when the hearings have been concluded.

Meanwhile, vital Treasury policies and legislation came up also for discussion between the President and his Secretary of the Treasury. The June 15 quarterly financing is approaching. The Government is about to embark, also, upon a $3,300,000,000 public works program.

A bond issue of about $8,000,000,000 probably will be floated at that time—an issue expected to run for perhaps five years.

Confident of Future.

Talking with newspapermen last night, Mr. Woodin was confident of the business future of the Nation.

"All lines of business and trade are improving," he asserted. "Railroad loadings are increasing. It looks like the real thing. Of course, it has got to be a long climb, but the improvement is noticeable all over the country. It is everywhere. Farmers are feeling better. The people are spending money. There is confidence."

Somewhat shy about his relations with the President, Mr. Woodin nevertheless made it clear that he felt the mainspring behind the upward trend of affairs was Mr. Roosevelt himself.

INDUSTRIAL BILL HIT BY MANUFACTURERS

National Association Says Measure Would Retard Trade Recovery.

(Associated Press.)

An assertion that the administration's industrial recovery bill as it now stands would "retard rather than promote business recovery," yesterday came from the National Association of Manufacturers.

James A. Emery, counsel for the association listing 56,000 manufacturers, announced initiation of a drive to change the measure when the Senate Finance Committee hearings on the legislation are resumed today. Emery, the announcement said, would suggest amendments to the industry control section of the bill.

The association yesterday protested that the proposed legislation would replace private ownership and operation of business with a "Governmental bureaucracy," increase competitive handicaps in home markets by failing to provide import control to correspond to increased price, and mean the "immediate and complete unionization of all labor in all industry and the closed shop."

Limitation Clause Hit.

The statement attacked the two-year limitation clause for the Government-business-industry partnership If beneficial, the plan should be permanent, and if not, it should never be put into operation, the statement said.

"If the Congress and the country are determined upon State socialism," it was added, "let them enter upon it with their eyes open and not with any hasty misapprehension that the whole plan is only a temporary expedient and hence of little permanent consequence."

Referring to revenue sections of the bill, the manufacturers said they preferred the general sales tax rather than increased gasoline levies, boosted income tax rates and "the proposed folly and injustice of taxing corporate dividends in the hands of recipients."

Sales Tax Advocated.

"We advocate," the statement said, "a general manufacturers' sales tax with a full realization that it may result in most instances in its absorption by the manufacturer."

The statement made it clear the good intentions of the President were not impunged. It said Mr. Roosevelt's proposed partnership between Government and private business was "a noble experiment worth undertaking" provided it was done "on fair terms and effectuated through feasible and constitutional methods."

Objecting to bureaucracy, the statement said the bill as it stands would force business and industry to mark time for months awaiting administration approval of its steps.

CITY MANAGER PAYS DAUGHTER'S RANSOM

that Miss McElroy dress immediately. She left the bathroom by a door leading to her bedroom, dressed in a bright colored gown and a tan coat.

Opposed Bright Clothing.

The kidnapers expressed surprise when they realized their intended victim was a young woman. They demanded that she dress in a less noticeable costume, but she refused to do so, telling them she was going to the races later because she had some "hot tips."

"We'll bet those for you," one of the men said.

When the ransom price was made known to Miss Christensen in the presence of Miss McElroy, the city manager's daughter laughingly declared:

"I'm worth more than that. Why that's not as much as they got for Mike Katz."

She referred to a Kansas City druggist, for whose release kidnapers reputedly obtained ransom of $100,000.

Housekeeper Gives Alarm.

The housekeeper reported details of the kidnaping to the city manager.

As Miss Christensen described the two men who forced Miss McElroy at the point of revolvers to accompany them, one was rather tall and thin faced and of swarthy complexion. The other was shorter and heavier and of fair complexion.

Both men, Miss Christensen said, appeared to be between 30 and 35 years old.

The housekeeper said the car in which the kidnapers spirited her away was a large black or blue sedan. She was unable to determine the make of the car or to obtain the license number.

Victim Had Courage.

The housekeeper praised the courage of her young mistress. She said Miss McElroy screamed when the men first ordered her to come out of the bathroom but that "after that I never saw such a brave girl in my life."

Miss McElroy, whose mother is dead, directs the affairs of her father's household and acts as his official hostess on formal occasions.

She attended Rockford College, Rockford Ill., where she was for a term president of the student body.

The kidnapers established contact with the McElroy home by letters and telephone.

Every cloud in the international sky was carefully noted yesterday by Secretary Hull and the three others named with him thus far on the delegation—former Gov. James M. New mutterings in Great Britain and France against paying the war debt installments due June 15.

Renewed feeling abroad against the United States monetary policy because of the administration's bill to abrogate the gold clause in all contracts, public and private.

'Enchanted Isle' at Chicago Fair Is Magnet to All Ages

Grownups Ignore Adult Wonders to Overrun Section, Which Brings Nursery Rhyme Characters to Life for Children.

Chicago, May 28 (U.P.).—Thousands of children made Enchanted Island the focal point today of A Century of Progress Exposition.

It was the fair's first holiday program and indicated that the playground built for children is to be one of the most popular places in an exposition which covers 434.32 acres and displays in moving exhibits the history of a world during 100 years of unprecedented progress.

Attendance figures will not be available until tomorrow, but fair officials estimated the crowd would be almost as large as yesterday's, when Postmaster General James A. Farley delivered President Roosevelt's personal message and a ray of light from the star Arcturus was utilized to help open the exposition.

The opening crowd included 155,000 persons who paid to get in and some 25,000 participants in the parade and salute of nations.

No special general event was scheduled for today. Somewhat to the surprise of officials, a maority of the visitors passed up the fantastic, oddly constructed buildings and their rainbow colors to hurry with their children to Enchanted Island.

The theme of the island, built where Lake Michigan stood 30 feet deep only a decade ago, is the bringing to life of nursery rhymes characters.

Each child visitor is greeted by the Enchanter. He is J. E. Littleton, who is 7 feet 5 inches tall and wears a story book costume which includes a coat of resplendent green velvet.

Some of the artificial story book characters tower 10 and 20 feet into the air, and move. There are coasters and rides, a miniature moving picture theater, a restaurant with child-size tables, and a zoo which contains only baby animals.

Here the child finds Jack the Giant Killer, Old Mother Hubbard and others.

GEORSETOWN PREP CHAPEL DEDICATED

Colorful Rites Are Held in New Structure at Garrett Park.

A colorful religious ceremony yesterday marked the dedication of the new chapel at Georgetown Preparatory School at Garrett Park, Md.

The first mass in the structure was said by the Rev. Patrick F. O'Gorman, S. J., dean of studies at the school. Students served the mass. The acolytes were Joseph C. Sheehan, of Baltimore, and Frank J. Foley, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The sermon was preached by the Rev. Robert S. Lloyd, S. J., who expressed his thanks to the donor of the chapel and read a letter of thanks from the Rev. Wlodomirus Ledochowski, S. J., general of the Society of Jesus. A cable was read from Cardinal Pacelli, papal secretary of state, expressing the congratulations of the Holy Father. The ceremony was closed with solemn benediction.

The Rev. Michael J. Curley, D. D., Archbishop of Baltimore, presided. He was assisted by the Rev. Edward C. Phillips, S. J., provincial of Maryland and New York Province of the Society of Jesus, and the Rev. W. Coleman Nevils, S. J., president of Georgetown University.

Among those present were the Rev. Vincent A. McCormick, S. J., rector of Woodstock College; Vincent Hart, S. J., dean of Georgetown University; Aloysius Mack, S. J., of Fordham University, and Thomas I. O'Malley, S. J., dean of Loyola College, Baltimore.

Civic Associations Plan Merit Award

A certificate of merit, to be awarded by the Federation of Civic Associations to the colored man or woman of the community who has performed during a calendar year the most outstanding civic achievement, was voted Friday night at a meeting in the District Building. The conditions under which this award will be made will be submitted to the federation at its next meeting by a committee of three.

The federation, at the instance of J. F. N. Wilkinson, decided to join the Southwest Civic Association in its effort to procure a new site for Engine Company No. 4, as well as new equipment. It will also cooperate with the Garfield Civic Association in securing a sewer extension from the junction of Stanton and Sheridan roads, through Hartford avenue and Twenty-second street to Alabama avenue.

The new home loan bill, passage of which is expected before the June meeting of the federation, was made subject of study by the legislative committee, headed by Samuel D. Matthews. The question of dropping various delinquent associations from the federation roster was held in abeyance until George W. Beasley, federation president, can confer with presidents of these civic bodies.

SEARCH IS RENEWED FOR DURIG, SCULPTOR

Wife Alarmed by Failure to Hear From Missing Man; Foe Named.

With the passing of the third day without word from Prof. Ernest Durig, 37-year-old sculptor, who dropped from sight last Thursday, Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, chief of detectives, last night ordered a renewal of the lookout for the missing artist and commanded his men to spare no efforts in locating him.

Hoping against hope that her husband is still alive and will return to her shortly, Mrs. Freida Durig, wife of the missing man, last night sat patiently beside a telephone in her husband's studio at 1536 Connecticut avenue, waiting for a call that might bring her word of him.

Prof. Durig left his home last Thursday night to attend a social function at an embassy, and when he failed to return later that night Mrs. Durig became apprehensive and called the embassy, only to find that he had never arrived.

She thought it best not to report his disappearance to police immediately, for fear that the publicity might prevent his return. But when he failed to arrive by Saturday morning, Mrs. Durig notified Inspector Burke, who began an investigation at once.

Fears that he might have met with foul play were evinced by Mrs. Durig, as she told police of "a powerful political enemy" who on numerous occasions had tried to impede her husband's progress in the artistic world.

When he left home, Prof. Durig was wearing a dark gray suit, tan shoes, blue shirt with a white collar, green and white cravat and a derby hat. Partly bald, he has very bushy hair on the back of his head.

TREASURY TO FIGHT FOR NEW GOLD LAW

that it may not come to a vote until tomorrow.

Representative Luce (Republican), Massachusetts, ranking minority member on the House Banking Committee, is leading the opposition in his branch. He claims it is not only unconstitutional, but would destroy confidence and break the faith in Government obligations.

Administration followers, however, noted that the effect of the resolution was to increase security and commodity prices. They contended that by "putting into law that which now exists, it will return prosperity to this country."

Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, reiterated yesterday his belief that the administraton move was "rank repudiation" and was "unconstitutional." He plans to fight it on the Senate floor.

The proposal affects approximately $100,000,000,000 in Government and private contracts, including State, municipal, railroad and other gold bonds. It covers war debts, making them payable in currency instead of gold.

ISHII ENDS PARLEY; GOES TO NEW YORK

Roosevelt and Japanese Agree on Need of Cooperation at London.

(Associated Press.)

Viscount Ishii and his associates on the Japanese delegation to the London conference completed a six-day visit to Washington yesterday and left for New York, agreed in principle upon the necessity for cooperation at the London economic conference. The delegates expect to sail for England June 2.

During his Washington stay Viscount Ishii was a visitor at the White House four times and had two private conversations with President Roosevelt, which resulted in the issuance of a joint statement in which they expressed their belief that "both economic and military disarmament" are necessary for the attainment of peace. Both joined in the hope that these two ends may be achieved.

Although reports from the Geneva arms conference received during the White House conversations indicated a wide divergence of views between the United States and Japan on naval ratios, the Ishii-Roosevelt statement said:

"We hope that the countries of the Far East, along with those of the Occident, will be able to contribute substantially, in a spirit of cooperation, to the laying of solid foundations for a structure of world peace and prosperity."

Conferences between the Japanese economic experts accompanying Viscount Ishii and State Department experts resulted in agreements in principle between the two countries for cooperation at London in efforts to stabilize currencies and remove economic barriers to trade recovery.

The two powers are in agreement that the price of silver "should be reasonably enhanced and that silver exchange should be stabilized." There was harmony also upon proposals that the two nations should negotiate reciprocal trade measures and that an unlimited most-favored-nations tariff treaty should be discussed.

The Japanese delegates frankly said at the beginning of the Washington conversations that trade relations between Japan and the United States were so satisfactory that the two nations could undoubtedly move as a unit at London.

Only President Roosevelt and Viscount Ishii know whether their private discussions resulted in any definite understandings which may lessen the differences between Japan and the rest of the world concerning Japanese advances in Manchuria. These military activities loom large among the unsettled political problems which the London conference must remove in laying a solid foundation for world peace and prosperity.

Viscount Ishii and other members of the Japanese delegation will be the guests of the Japan Society at a dinner in New York Wednesday and will be entertained at dinner in Boston by the Japan Society Thursday.

Girl Seeks to Die In Soaring Plane

Scranton, Pa., May 28 (A.P.).—Miss Alice Rockey, 19, of near Montrose, was recovering in a hospital today from what police said was an attempt to commit suicide in an airplane while 1,500 feet above the Scranton airport.

Investigators said the girl slashed her wrists with a razor and swallowed a quantity or poison.

Harold Swank, pilot of the plane, told police she engaged him to take her on a sight-seeing flight last night. He said he noticed something was wrong with his passenger after reaching the 1,500-foot altitude and landed as quickly as possible.

BEATIFYING OF NUN MARKED IN CAPITAL

Catherine Laboure's Career Told at Immaculate Conception Church.

Elaborate ceremonies celebrating the beatification of Sister Catherine Laboure, of the Sisters of Charity of St. Vincent de Paul, which took place yesterday afternoon in Vatican City, were held at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, under the auspices of the Sisters of Charity and their six institutions in the District of Columbia. More than a thousand persons participated.

The Rev. Francis J. Hurney presided and was celebrant at solemn benediction. The Rev. Edward McAdams was deacon and the Rev. Daniel Kain, subdeacon. The Rev. J. Kelly Reese and the Rev. S. A. Czys assisted. Present in the sanctuary were Mgr. Eugene Connelly, the Very Rev. John P. Cribbins, C. M., director of the Sisters of Charity, and the Rev. Francis D. Koeper, C. M., of St. Louis, Mo.

Arrangements were under the direction of Sister Mary Clare, superior of St. Vincent's Home and School, Mary Gabriel, superior of St. Rose's Technical School; Sister Mary Louise, superior of the Immaculate Conception High School for Girls; Sister Ignatia, superior of Soldiers Home Hospital, and Sister Bacchal, superior of St. Vicent's Home and School, and Sister Rose, superior of St. Anne's Orphanage and Home. The participants of the services included the members of the institutions above. A special group of May hymns were sung during the services. And all joined in a solemn act of consecration.

Father Smith's Address.

The address was by the Very Rev. Ignatius Smith, O. P., noted Dominican preacher, who said in part:

"We have assembled in this magnificent temple of God this evening to honor a plebeian of the people who has been inducted into the aristocracy of Almighty God. A few hours ago, amid all the splendour and pomp of such an occasion and surrounded by countless thousands of jubilant faithful in the Vatican City, our Holy Father, Pope Pius XI, declared blessed the little Sister of Charity, Catherine Laboure.

"She has become the object of the devotion of the entire world and Catholic people throughout the Christendom rejoice today not only because her merits have been recognized but also because her beatification gives testimony of which the world stands in need.

"Catherine Laboure was born at the beginning of the last century, on May 2, 1806. She was of a large family of children brought into this world by holy and toiling Catholic parents.

Messages From Virgin.

Scarcely had she entered the novitate and fallen under the providential direction of the holy and prudent director, Father Aladel, than he discovered that he was dealing with an unusual soul. This young lady was in constant and most intimate communication with the Mother of God; the Blessed Virgin was appearing to this unusual woman. She came once, twice, and a third time, each time bringing from heaven a message to be delivered through Catherine to her confessor and to the world.

"These messages were of vital importance to the social and political reconstruction of France, to the rehabilitation of religion throughout the world, to the vitalization of religious life within her own community. In Catherine's mind the Blessed Mother revealed the plans that heaven had for the future of the world. In these revelations came the command on June 30, 1832. In these revelations came also the injunction of heaven to organize the Children of Mary, an injunction that was fulfilled in 1847 when to the Sisters of Charity and to the Vincentian Fathers was granted by Pius IX the right to the obligation of erecting this cofraternity in their institutions through the world, with all the indulgences of the more ancient confraternity in Rome. Truly the last shall be first and the first last; many are called but few are chosen. The political leaders of the French Revolution are scarce remembered. The little French peasant girl, scarcely able to read or write becomes the intimate confidant of the Blessed Virgin and the instrument of divine Providence, chosen above the mighty and powerful of this earth, for the reconstruction of religion and society."

FANCY CORPORATION SALARIES SLASHED

passed a law requiring a limitation of salaries of officers of corporations borrowing from the Reconstruction Corporation, the reduction in salaries of officers would be put at whatever limitation Congress imposed from June 1.

The Southern Pacific agreement also required that the company go to bankers and the public for funds to repay the Government as soon as the money market would permit. Salaries can not be increased during the life of the loan.

Hale Holden, of New York, is chairman of the executive committee of the company. It was reported in railroad circles yesterday that the reduction agreed upon would cut his salary from $150,000 a year to $60,000, including any reduction already made.

Other high officials of the company include H. W. DeForest, chairman of the board; Angus D. McDonald, vice chairman of the executive committee, and Paul Shoup, of San Francisco, president of the company.

"While the Southern Pacific Railroad loan is the first in which these salary reductions have been required," Mr. Jones said yesterday, "it will be the policy of the corporation to impose similar conditions in all future loans to railroads or other corporations paying excessive salaries."

HOPKINS GATHERING HIS RELIEF HELPERS

"No One Shall Starve" Goal of New Federal Official on Big Task.

(Associated Press.)

With his goal that no one shall starve, Harry L. Hopkins has begun selection of the small but experienced staff that will administer the half-billion-dollar fund provided by Congress for direct relief.

Hopkins, who was drafted by President Roosevelt from his job as chairman of the New York State relief organization, is moving slowly in selecting his aids. He expects to have only a handful of experts to begin with, but they will be men thoroughly conversant with the situation throughout the country.

The first of the helpers selected began his work at the Relief Administration offices yesterday. He is L. W. Post, New York State legislator.

Post was one of the original "technicrats" of Columbia University and a member of the national committee for technocracy.

Two immediate problems face Hopkins. One is to see that there is no halt in relief work. The other is to determine the methods of distributing funds in the various communities, some of which give money, while others distribute food and clothing.

Would Overcome Dole.

None of these problems has yet been given the sort of consideration necessary for final determination. It was said the whole scheme is aimed at getting the unemployed off the dole as soon as possible and back at paying work, but a part of the plan will be to place large numbers of people now receiving aid on jobs that will be created under the public works bill pending in Congress.

Although comparatively young in years, Hopkins has had long experience in social service and relief work. Born in Iowa, he was graduated from Grinnell College, Grinnell, Iowa., in 1912, and immediately went into settlement work in New York City. Later he worked for the New York Association for Improvement of the Condition of the Poor and was the first secretary of the New York Board of Child Welfare.

From the child welfare board he went with the American Red Cross and for several years was its Southern division manager. Resigning in 1922, he became director of the New York Tuberculosis and Health Association, from which job he was called in November, 1931, to become executive director of the temporary emergency relief administration of New York State, and in April, 1932, became chairman of the State relief organizatioon.

Distribution Scheme.

Hopkins has worked with Fred C. Croxton, relief director of the Reconstruction Corporation, and is familiar with the national situation. The Hopkins organization will be separate from the Reconstruction Corporation, as he is responsible to no one but the President and Congress.

The job the New Yorker has taken is admittedly a difficult one. He has the sole responsibility for distributing $500,000,000 of Federal charity funds to the States. This money is to be distributed over a period of two years. Half will be paid out to the States an the basis of $1 for each $3 spent by the State and its civic subdivisions from public money from all sources. Money expended by Associated Charities and similar organizations can not be counted. The other half is to be distributed on the basis of need in the various communities.

McMATH KIDNAPER BECOMES VIOLENT

Harris, of Hyannis, was called. Chief E. E. Hall, of Harwich, and Lauchlan Crocker, sheriff of Barnstable County, took Buck to the hospital.

Buck, with his brother, Cyril, who is also charged with extortion, were being held in the Barnstable County Jail. The brothers were scheduled to go on trial on June 12, having been indicted by the grand jury.

The McMath child was taken from her school through a ruse, a man having called the school representing himself to be Neil C. McMath, father of the child, and asking that she be released early as a chauffeur was to call for her.

She was taken to a cranberry bog shack not far from the school and that night she was transferred to the low, dingy cellar of a house across the street from the Buck home. She was kept there, being fed by her abductor, for two nights when she was returned to her father for payment of $60,000 ransom, which was recovered.

DELAWARE BALLOTS DEFINITE ON REPEAL

Nevada Elects Entirely Wet Ticket, Nearly Complete Returns Show.

Wilmington, Del., May 28 (A.P.).—Delaware today joined the parade of States which have approved by popular ballot repeal of the eighteenth amendment.

Complete unofficial returns in the election yesterday for 17 delegates at large to the State repeal convention gave candidates favoring elimination of national prohibition 45,398, and those against 13,236.

With the exception of Wilmington, the entire State has been dry by local option referendum since before national prohibition.

The drys carried only four districts in the State—three in Sussex County and one in Kent.

The State repeal convention will be held June 24 at Dover.

Reno, Nev., May 28 (A.P.).—Tabulation of nearly complete returns today indicated Nevada voted overwhelmingly for repeal of the eighteenth amendment at yesterday's primary election.

It appeared probable prohibitionists would not be represented by so much as a single delegate in the county conventions, to be held next month. Election of at least 600 delegates pledged for repeal, without any opposition whatever, was indicated by incomplete returns from every county in the State.

Several isolated precincts had yet to report, but repealists said they were confident these likewise had voted for adoption of the twenty-first amendment.

The result of the primary means that county conventions June 1 will elect an entire slate of wet delegates to the State convention, to be held in Carson City, the capital, on September 15, when Nevada will be added officially to the list of States ratifying the repeal amendment.

High Winds Cause Paris Air Race Postponement

Paris, May 28 (U.P.).—The Deutsch de la Meurthe air races were postponed until 8 a. m., tomorrow, because of high winds, low clouds and a heavy field which was considered a danger to light speed planes.

One British and six French fliers were entered.

GERMAN CASH CRISIS DUE TO BREAK TODAY

Currency and Gold Reserves Sunk to Lower Level; Credit Aid Asked.

Berlin, May 28 (U.P.).—A serious financial situation in Germany which may precipitate a further world money crisis will be outlined tomorrow, when the government receives the nation's international creditors to discuss extending her huge short-term credits.

With her foreign currency and gold reserves sunk to a dangerous level, which has brought the Reichsbank note coverage to less than 10 per cent, and with a constant decline in her export surplus, Germany's strength in her demands for renewals will lie, it is felt, literally in her cash weakness.

Financiers feel that Germany has chosen a strategic moment to present her case, on the eve of the World Economic Conference in London, opening June 12.

The government tomorrow may ask for an outright moratorium on her short-term credits, or suggest a reallocation of the funds available for foreign debt service. The course to be taken was kept secret.

There was a tendency to believe that the government might pass the decision on to the creditors.

Germany's total foreign debt totals 20,000,000,000 marks (more than $5,000,000,000), on which service charges amount to 1,300,000,000 marks in the current year. To meet these costs in foreign currency, the German authorities pointed out the Reich would have to have an average monthly export surplus of 80,000,000 to 90,000,000 marks.

However, in the entire first quarter of this year, the export surplus amounted only to 113,000,000 marks.

TINKHAM LAUNCHES MOVE TO QUIZ DAVIS

Testimony in Morgan Probe Basis of Action to Be Taken Today.

(Associated Press.)

Launching a demand for a congressional investigation of the business relations of Norman H. Davis, Representative Tinkham (Republican), Massachusetts, yesterday charged in a statement that President Roosevelt's ambassador-at-large "has been under personal obligation to J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., the fiscal agent of the British government."

The bearded Massachusetts Republican asserted he would introduce a resolution in the House today, calling for the investigation of Davis as a result of testimony in the Senate Banking Committee's sensational investigation of the house of Morgan.

"Norman H. Davis, chairman of the American delegation to the general disarmament conference with the personal rank of ambassador, and member of the organizing committee of the economic conference soon to be held in London," Tinkham asserted, "has just announced in Europe that the United States shall no longer be an independent nation and exercise such sovereignty as belongs to such a nation.

"He has officially proposed the termination of American neutrality, the curtailment of American freedom of the seas, and the assurance of American coercive action to enforce article 10 of the League of Nations, which article guarantees the present political boundaries of the world. He has announced that European nations are to be allowed to supervise American defense in the setting up at Geneva of a bureau for the supervision of arms.

"The same objectives have long been sought, also, by disloyal and seditious American organizations and foundations in the United States. It therefore becomes of the utmost importance to know what relations Mr. Davis now has or has had with any of these organizations."

Tinkham then referred to disclosures before the Banking Committee in its Morgan inquiry that Davis was on the list of favored customers and that he borrowed a sizeable sum from the Morgan firm several years ago, which is still partially unliquidated.

SENATE PROBERS REQUEST MORE DATA FROM MORGAN

uncovered by the investigating committee, cruised down the Potomac River with President Roosevelt giving rise to speculation that their conversation turned at least in part to the Morgan inquiry.

With the open hearings resuming Wednesday, Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, and his staff yesterday were busy in New York, gathering additional data to lay before the committee.

The stock syndicate and joint account operations of the Morgan firm were submitted to Pecora in answer to a question put forward by him at the beginning of the inquiry, but the reply became available yesterday for the first time.

Complete Details Asked.

Pecora asked for "lists of all pools, joint accounts and or syndicates in which either of said firms (Morgan & Co. or its Philadelphia affiliate, Drexel & Co.) or representatives participated, giving the names of securities involved, names of all participants, and all details with respect to the amount of the participation and profits and losses therein."

Some of the operations reported in answer to this question were of a minor nature, but others involved thousands of shares in some of the Nation's biggest corporations.

Probably the biggest was the "bankers' pool" organized after the crash of 1929 to stabilize the market, in which it was disclosed Saturday the total profits to participants were reported as $1,067,355.

Committee investigators are inquiring into this operation further, to determine, if possible, how the trading was done and where the 1,146,609 shares traded in were obtained.

Probably the biggest Morgan profit from any of these operations was in a joint account in Procter & Gamble Co. common stock in 1929, in which the firm's return was shown yesterday to have been $1,853,959.

F. S. Moseley & Co. had a 30 per cent interest in this account, in which 186,900 shares were traded.

Most of the operations were conducted in 1929, the peak year on the stock market, and were closed out that same year.

Larger Operations Listed.

A summary of the larger operations follows:

American Super Power Corporation and United Corporation, 1929; profit to Morgan $30,342.26; Asiel & Co., the same.

Anaconda Copper Mining Co. stock, 1929; profit, $113,765, divided equally between the Morgan and Asiel companies.

Commonwealth & Southern Corporation common stock and a number of other issues, 1929; profit, $78,228, Morgan and Asiel each getting $31,291, and United Corporation, Morgan subsidiary, $15,645.

Fleischmann Co. common stock, 1929; profit, $124,613, divided equally between Morgan and Asiel.

General Motors Corporation, 7 per cent preferred, 1927; when the account was closed Morgan obtained 2,819 shares at $125 plus, and Wood, Struthers & Co. 940 shares, at the same figure.

Gas Stock Traded.

United Gas Improvement Co., 1929; profit, $138,890, divided equally between Morgan and Asiel.

United Gas Improvement, account No. 2, 1929; profit $130,503, divided equally between Morgan and Asiel.

Alleghany Corporation stock, 1929; Morgan profit, $803,939; Morgan 60 per cent interest in the account, Guaranty Co., 40 per cent.

Congoleum-Nairn stock 1926 to 1933, Morgan profit, $124,812.

Crosley Radio Corporation, 1929; cash received, $542,317; shares received, 5,618.

United Corporation, 1929; Morgan profits, $93,941.

Most of the accounts were formed to deal in "rights" to shares already held, and complete reports were not made on disposition of the original stock in many cases. They were characterized as "joint arbitrage accounts."

Some Losses Suffered.

In some instances, Morgan apparently suffered a loss, as in a special account in Bethlehem Steel in 1929, in which the firm reported: "Our final liability 3,081 shares, which we took up at a cost of $116.0452 per share."

The report did not show whether this stock was ever disposed of, and if so, at what figure.

Other reports were not complete. For instance, the report of an account in Celanese Corporation of America 7 per cent cumulative prior preferred stock, said:

"September 1, 1929, account formed by J. P. Morgan & Co., and Clark, Dodge & Co. to purchase 7,550 shares (left over from a previous account), at average cost of $93.698 per share. Summary:

"Cost of 7,550 shares, $707,422.30.

"Sales, 410 shares at average price of $78.439 per share, $32,160.06."

No report was made on the disposition of the remainder.

It is such reports about which the investigators are seeking additional information for presentation in the open investigation.

FECHNER ON INITIAL FOREST INSPECTION

Chief Visits Camps and Gangs Building Guard Rails on New Highway.

The first actual inspections of the work being done by the reforestation army was made yesterday by Robert Fechner, director of the Civilian Conservation Corps, during a trip through the Shenandoah National Forest along the Skyline Trail.

Accompanied by H. K. Bishop, in charge of construction of the trail, Mr. Fechner visited gangs building stone guard rails along the new road near Panorama, Va. He also inspected the camp at Skyland, where 30 men from Arlington and Fairfax counties are quartered, and another work camp at Great Meadow.

The trail, a 42-mile road along the top of the Blue Ridge Mountains, will be opened in a few weeks. For this reason the men of the camps are being used on road work, although later they will be employed in cleaning out dead trees from the forests.

Men to Stay in Home States.

Mr. Fechner said yesterday that arrangements have been completed to use most of the reforestation workers in the States in which they are enrolled. A last-minute rush of State projects canceled earlier plans to send many of the Eastern units to forests in the West. The approval of Eastern and Middle Western developments will result in about 200 fewer camps being established in the West than had been expected.

At the Skyland Camp, where Mr. Fechner and his party had lunch, he was shown a swimming pool the men built for themselves and an outdoor chapel with logs serving as benches. A preacher for the contingent was found among the men, Lieut. Christian Knudsen, in command of the camp, told him. He inquiried particularly into the supplies furnished the men. At both camps it was reported that old mail trucks supplied the only transportation and that these were frequently out of order.

Camp Has Radio.

The Skyland Camp was equipped with a radio, the batteries having been bought out of the post exchange funds.

At the Great Meadows camp, Lieut. N. A. Burnell informed Mr. Fechner that the men had unofficially named the post Camp Fechner.

The dinner eaten by Mr. Fechner and his party consisted of steak, stewed corn, mashed potatoes, gravy, bread and butter and cocoa. Dessert was cake, made in the camp, and ice-cream. Those who accompanied Mr. Fechner, in addition to Mr. Bishop, were J. J. McEntee and Charles H. Taylor, assistants to the director; Guy McKinney, publicity director for the corps, and W. M. Austin, resident engineer of the trail.

Pickett Deplores Dry Law Policy

(Associated Press.)

Deets Pickett, research secretary of the Methodist-Episcopal Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, said last night in a statement the American people "must choose between prohibition and control of the State by the liquor trade."

"The drink trade," Pickett said, "never respected any law made for its regulation before prohibition, and now that the sale of beer has been 'legalized,' the traffic once again shows very plainly that it considers itself above statutes, above the expressed will of the people, above anything which interferes in the slightest with its operations."

Pickett cited a report from Atlanta that a permit to sell beer was being sought from the city council despite State law. "We are naively told," he said, "there will be no police to enforce this law and consequently the trade can operate unmolested."

3 Die in Oklahoma Family Gunplay

Drumright, Okla., May 28 (A.P.).—Three persons were killed by shotgun fire here today. Officers expressed the belief that jealousy prompted J. R. Townsend, 73, to kill Jim Wilson, 44, his neighbor; Mrs. Charles Swafford, 65; his mother-in-law, and then commit suicide.

Police said Townsend and his 26-year-old wife were estranged. Wilson, they said, had defended Mrs. Townsend's action in filing suit for divorce Saturday.

Wilson was slain in the presence of two of his daughters. Mrs Swafford was killed at her home. Mrs. Townsend fled to safety. Townsend killed himself by tripping the hammer of the shotgun with a toe.

Antiboycott Plans Disclosed by Ishii

New York, May 28 (U.P.).—A plan through which nations of the world would eliminate successfully the economic boycott as a weapon of war probably will be suggested to the World Economic Conference in London, Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, head of the Japanese delegation to the conference, said on his arrival here today.

Viscount Ishii said he has been considering "an idea" to defeat the boycott for some time. He hopes, he added, that his plan will develop sufficiently in his mind for him to present it at the conference.

"The boycott," he said, "is the foremost obstacle to peaceful relationship between the nations, and I feel that it will be given large consideration in London."

Two Youths Die in Fall Fleeing Game Raiders

New York, May 28 (A.P.).—Two youths tumbled four stories to their deaths today fleeing from policemen who raided a crap game on the roof of a Brooklyn tenement.

They tried to leap to the roof of an adjoining building, but fell into a paved alley. Harry Hershkowitz, 16, was dead when he reached the hospital, and Sidney Prenovitz, 17, died a few hours later. A dozen other boys escaped.

The police were informed of the game by telephone by a young woman who identified herself only as the sweetheart of one of the players.

WITNESS IN GANG'S TRIAL FOUND SLAIN

Diver Brings Up Corpse of Youth Who Helped Send Members to Prison.

Quincy, Mass., May 28 (A.P.).—The bullet-scarred body of Thomas G. (Red) Curran, youthful witness against two gangsters who critically injured a Boston police inspector several months ago, was found by a diver in a water-filled quarry here today.

Curran's body had eight bullet holes in it, Medical Examiner Fred E. Jones said. The face apparently had been kicked in and the skull crushed.

The body was found by Fred J. Wallace, a diver hired by county authorities as a result of police investigation into the mysterious disappearance of an expensive automobile, apparently driven over the precipitious walls of the quarry last Monday.

The machine was found today at the bottom of the quarry, in more than 100 feet of water. In it were two suitcases, filled with men's clothing, much of it bloodstained. One shirt bore Curran's name.

Shortly after the diver went down for a third time he found the body and when he came to the surface he reported what appeared to be another body not far away from where he found Curran.

More than 4,000 persons crowding the cliff above the quarry water saw the body brought to the surface. Heavy details of police constantly strove to hold the throng back from the rim of the 60-foot cliff.

Dr. Jones said Curran apparently had been dead a week.

Curran was a Government witness in trial of Thomas P. Dineen, 31, and Anthony M. Dembrowski, 22, members of what is known to police as the Gustin gang of South Boston, who were convicted of assault with intent to kill Police Inspector Daniel McDonald.

Dineen and Dembrowski were sentenced on March 18 to long terms in State prison. McDonald was brutally beaten the night of January 13 and for weeks he was not expected to live. He was found unconscious in a field near a clubhouse, allegedly the resort of the Gustin gang. Curran was caretaker of the clubhouse.

Stephen Wallace, alias Gustin, and Frank Sullivan are being sought for beating McDonald.

Matthews Urges Soviet Recognition

As the vanguard of social progress and world peace, the Soviet Union should be immediately recognized by the United States, and American workers should lead in this demand, J. B. Matthews, executive secretary of the Fellowship of Reconciliation, said at a meeting last night in the Arlington Hotel under the auspices of the Washington Friends of the Soviet Union.

Matthews termed Soviet Russia a "bulwark against cynicism in modern social thinking." He disproved oft-repeated charges against the Soviet Union and pointed to the "rising Fascist and war menace" in this country as an important reason for recognition of U. S. S. R.

Other speakers at the prorecognition meeting represented the National Students League, the Washington Socialist party, the local Communist party and the Liberal Club of George Washington University.

NAZIS GET MAJORITY IN DANZIG ELECTION

The Socialists lost 10,000 votes in comparison with their 1930 total, the Communists dropped 6,000 and the Nationalists 12,000.

The city has been surging with excitement since earliest returns indicated a great Nazi tide of votes probably would bring a majority. Darkness found singing throngs in the streets celebrating the victory.

Wolff's News Agency preliminary final count follows: National Socialists, 107,619; Young Germans, 1,677; Socialists, 38,210; Communists, 14,800; National Front, 13,601; Centrists, 31,504; Houseowners, 998; Polish parties, 6,726.

The Danzig Nazi program follows broadly the lines of the German National Socialists. Anti-Semitism has already driven many Jewish business men to sell out and leave the free city.

The Polish government watched today's election anxiously for fear pro-German exuberance might provoke an incident which would call for Poland's interference. Poland controls the foreign politics and the harbor traffic of Danzig, under the aegis of the League of Nations.

The Poles have looked with misgivings upon the rise of the Nazi movement in Danzig.

Albert Forster, chief Nazi leader in Danzig, recently asserted his party's duty was to "guide the free state so gently that ultimately it would, without violence, drop back into the lap of the mother country, Germany."

118 SAFE ASHORE AFTER SHIPWRECK

to the salon floors and sent tables and chairs crashing against the walls.

Keepers of the Rock of Ages Light said they saw the spars of the steamer above the low-hanging fog and made frantic but futile efforts to attract the vessel's attention with the siren. A few moments after the vessel struck she had filled with water until her top decks were awash.

Only the fact that the lake was calm enabled the lightkeeper and the steamer crew to transfer every one to small boats and rafts and avoid loss of life.

The passengers and crew spent most of the night on the reef, a desolate promontory. The rescued took turns going into the tiny lighthouse for warmth, only a few being able to get in at a time.

The injured, who are in Fort William hospitals:

Beatrice Cote, stewardess, Manistee, Mich., injured spine.

John Gancarz, Freesoil, Mich., deckhand, legs, hand and shoulder hurt.

Alex Mack, Portland, Me., deckhand, leg broken and hand hurt.

George Williams, lacerated scalp.

There was no panic. The crew lowered five boats, while boats and rafts sent out from the lighthouse took off all passengers and crew. The rafts were towed ashore by the lighthouse power boat. The rescues were completed in 45 minutes.

Several persons were cut and bruised. After the ship's first aid supplies gave out women tore pieces from their clothing to be used as bandages.

The George M. Cox, formerly the steamer Puritan, had been known in Great Lakes ports for 30 years. The vessel recently had been refitted and was valued at $200,000.

Jews Name Campaign Heads.

New York, May 28 (A.P.).—The American Jewish Congress announced today that George Gordon Battle, prominent attorney, and Sidney Hillman, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, will head its campaign for a million-dollar fund to aid Jews in Germany.

65TH YEAR MARKED BY CENTRAL CHURCH

Pastor Cites Punctuality of Woodrow Wilson in Attending Services.

Woodrow Wilson, a Presbyterian elder and a member of the congregation of the Central Presbyterian Church, Fifteenth and Irving streets northwest, was never late for a service during his entire office as President, it was declared yesterday morning by Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of the church since 1906.

Dr. Taylor, speaking on "Sixty-five Years in the Nation's Capital," in honor of the sixty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the church, reviewed its history from its inception in 1868.

"It is a history," he said, "of romance and of the Providence of God. The church was organized while Washington was still immersed in the effects of the Civil War. It has had a remarkable history."

Organized in 1868.

The church was organized in 1868 by the late Dr. A. W. Pitzer. A native of Virginia, he had gone West to Kansas as a young minister. While in Leavenworth, Dr. Pitzer had become interested in three young men, Messrs. Ewing, Sherman and McCook.

Later these three become generals in the Union Army. After the war Dr. Pitzer met Gen. Ewing in Washington and it was at the suggestion of Gen. Ewing that Dr. Pitzer became interested in the organization of a church.

"At the same time," Dr. Taylor continued, "a very devoted woman had written to Dr. Moses Hoge, of Richmond, Va., asking him to suggest a man who would act as pastor to a small group and Dr. Pitzer was suggested. This coincidence did not become known to Dr. Pitzer until some years later."

The first meetings of the church were held in the old Columbia Law Building, Fifth street, between D and E streets northwest. After a short period a chapel was built at Third and I streets northwest. This was finished in 1873. In 1885 the church was completed.

Wilson Speech Preserved.

Dr. Pitzer resigned in 1906 and became pastor emeritus and the Rev. Mr. Taylor was called to the pastorate. In 1910 a portable chapel was erected at Thirteenth and Monroe streets northwest. In 1911 the chapel was moved to the corner of Fifteenth and Irving streets northwest.

In March, 1913, Woodrow Wilson was inaugurated as President of the United States and began his eight-year office by attending the services at Central Church the first Sunday of his administration.

That same year, as a member of the congregation, President Wilson laid the corner stone of the new church building. His brief address on that occasion, regarded as a model of literary beauty and style, is preserved at the church.

Dr. Taylor was assisted in the services yesterday by the Rev. Wade H. Allison, who entered the ministry from this church and who is now pastor at Leaksville, N. C., and Fred V. Poag, from Union Theological Seminary. Mr. Poag will assist Dr. Taylor during the summer.

Negro Veterans Hold Memorial

Joint Memorial Day services under auspices of colored veterans' organizations were held last night at the Vermont Avenue Baptist Church. The memorial address was made by Morris Lewis, of Illinois, secretary to Representative DePriest. George B. Hunt was officer of the day and E. L. Person, master of ceremonies. The organizations were welcomed to the church by William A. Wallace, George H. Rycraw, of the James Reese Europe Post, responding.

The history of the memorial association was read by Beatrice Hayden. Charles H. Toms read Gen. Logan's order for observance of the memorial. Lincoln's Gettysburg address was recited by Howard A. Walker. John F. Porter recited "In Flanders Fields." Musical numbers were rendered by the church choir, James H. Lomax, Marie Jordan, and an instrumental trio, Edna G. Dockings, Lawrence Dockings and Romeo Harris.

Organizations participating included those represented in the Grand Army of the Potomac, the Army and Navy Union, the United Spanish War Veterans, the American Legion, War Mothers, Enlisted Men's Association and the Charles Young Unit of Veterans of All Wars. Alexander Mann headed the general memorial committee.

FLINT POLICE PRESS HUNT FOR M'DONALD

Youth Sought in Mother's Murder Now Thought to Be Suicide.

Flint, Mich., May 28 (A.P.).—Every known haunt of 17-year-old Baife Macdonald was searched in vain by State and county police today seeking to question the youth concerning the slaying yesterday of his mother, Mrs. Grace B. Macdonald, 54, wealthy and socially prominent widow.

Mrs. Macdonald, her head crushed in with a heavy bookend, was found dead in her bedroom. The son, said to have quarreled violently with his mother the day before, had disappeared.

Numerous telephone reports that young Macdonald, whom his mother had criticized for keeping late hours, had been seen in various places were investigated without result. As the hours passed without trace of the youth, police began to give more serious consideration to a threat he made Friday to kill himself because of his mother's criticism.

The threat was related by Detective Charles Raab, who said he had been called to the Macdonald home by Mrs. Macdonald as a result of a disagreement between mother and son. The detective left the house shortly before Friday midnight when Mrs. Macdonald said she would need no further protection.

CRUDE CROSS MARKS SLAIN GIRL'S GRAVE

Corn Husks Show Police Spot Where Mora Buried Sweetheart, 22.

East St. Louis, Ill., May 28 (A.P.).—A cross of cornhusks, nailed above a coal shed door, today led police to the grave of Antonia Zitta, 22, after Louis Mora, 32, her sweetheart, allegedly confessed choking her to death in a lovers' quarrel.

The young woman's body was found buried 4 feet below the surface of the shed floor. Mora, who previously had been arrested on suspicion, is held without bond in the county jail at Belleville.

Mora was said to have related that he killed Miss Zitta after she came to his home, Friday evening, at his request. They had been keeping company about 5 months.

Police quoted the prisoner as saying the young woman seized a butcher knife during the quarrel, and slashed him. He then choked her and finding she was dead, carried the body to the wood shed, buried it, and went to bed. His body bore knife slashes.

He was arrested yesterday at his work and questioned for hours before making his reputed confession, early today.

Officers quoted his 10-year-old son, Joe, as telling them:

"My daddy told me to tell you he was at the show with me Friday night but it isn't true. I was with a chum."

Tax Penalty Warning Issued.

Charles H. Callahan, commissioner of revenue of Alexandria, has directed attention to the fact that after June 1 a penalty of 10 per cent will be automatically imposed on all persons failing to render State income tax returns. These returns must be made by all persons over 21, whether they have a taxable income or not, and are liable only for the capitation tax.

The Federal Diary

Socks.

There's a fine word in our lingo, that great word we call "sock." There's a sock for all, by jingo, though "sock" need not mean "knock."

Socks we give and socks we take, there are socks and socks and socks. In everything we do or make we can use that grand word "sock."

The Japs are socking China while Hitler socks the Jews; Europe socks our Uncle Sam, and Uncle, he socks you.

Since F. D. socks us workers our socks must all be darned. If he don't stop this socking, our darned socks will be yarn.

And now I've almost finished, but one thing more I'd say. While we're having all this socking, don't you sock me, I pray.—Izi Bauserman.

THE Government has failed to collect recent income tax from J. P. Morgan, so the record goes, but it has received perhaps more in another way from Mr. Morgan than the actual cash.

The Coast and Geodetic Survey operates the surveyship Oceanographer, the once proud Corsair II, formerly Morgan's property, a luxurious private yacht, costing conservatively $2,500,000. The Oceanographer at present is off the Maryland coast conducting important work for the survey.

In transferring the vessel January 1, 1930, to the Government it was stipulated that the craft was to be used for the especial work it is now doing. The purchase price was $1.

The ship is carrying a crew of 58 men besides the following complement:

H. A. Seran, captain; H. W. Hemple, executive officer; Benjamin H. Rigg, navigating officer; J. L. McIver, chief engineer; Edwin J. Brown, T. B. Reed, C. A. Burmister, Fred Natella, R. H. Tryon, Joe E. Waugh, jr., Raymond H. Carstens and Enoch M. Sawyer.

FIFTY years is appraised as a relatively alight period in the life of an individual. In the life of a service, no matter what the field may be, it is considered significantly noteworthy.

Today marks the half-centenary of the establishment of the Bureau of Animal Industry—a Federal agency that serves the live stock industry of the Nation in its warfare against farm animal disease and serves the public more intimately through the meat inspection service.

Its first big job was to eradicate pleuro-pneumonia in cattle, which destroyed our export trade. That was done in less than ten years, and most of it in four years. Ten outbreaks of foot-and-mouth disease have been so efficiently handled that the country is entirely free from it. Cattle ticks, carriers of tick fever, have been wiped out in nearly all the infested area. Tuberculosis in animals is on the decline, and other diseases are too. Veterinary science has made big returns to this country in these ways and others and should be given credit for its achievements.

The need to protect the animal industry of the Nation and the necessity of having an executive agency to put into effect the measures necessary to stop the spread of disease are just as essential today as at the time of the creation of the bureau.

The Federal Diary heartily congratulates this bureau, of which Dr. John R. Mohler is now chief, on its fiftieth birthday.

HISTORY repeats itself, so we are told and led to believe. Historians and scholars will recall that when the Gauls invaded Rome, some sacred geese, disturbed by the noise of the intruders, began to cackle and the sound awoke the garrison, thus saving the Roman capital from the enemy. Now geese and other farm birds are to be honored this year in Rome. The world's poultry congress and exposition, the fifth of its kind, is to be held at Trajan Market in the ancient city September 6-15, 1933.

"The congress," according to an announcement, "will be held in a setting which though seeming to be staged for a fairy tale is in reality part of the drama of history. In spite of the centuries of neglect and devastation through which they have passed, Trajan Markets are still able to give a striking picture of their former magnificance. Each stone of the majestic building seems to tell of the greatness of Rome and the splendor of its history." Similar congresses have been held in Holland, Spain, Canada and England.

Dr. Morley A. Jull, senior poultryman, Bureau of Animal Industry, is chairman of the general committee for the United States and also chairman of the program committee.

After making a study of President Roosevelt's Cabinet, we believe that the Hull Dern bunch looks Farley good. We Woodin' be surprised if this Cummin' summer's business is Perkin' up.—Dodd Vernon in Edinburgh Valley Review.

TWO bill cars with contracting agents, lithographers, and bill posters for Ringling Brothers Circus, have been in the city advertising the "Largest Show on Earth," here on pay day. The itinerary is arranged during the winter months and Washington dates are always on pay day. It may be different this year, for Government employes are readjusting their personal budget.

In Madison Square Garden, New York, their lowest-priced seat was $1, but as busines was not so brisk they reduced this to 50 cents, which will bring more business from the East Side. Their highest-priced ticket in the Garden was $3. There are a number of circus fans in the Bureau of Internal Revenue—Eddie F. Slanker, commissioner's office; Paul Anderson, intelligence unit; Marsh A. Bodenhamer and Joe N. McCollum (*), administrative division; L. K. Sunderlin, Charlie R. Wanner, and Jack Jenkins, rules and regulations section.

Well, boys (they feel much younger since they saw that three-sheet poster with the pretty bareback rider in fluffy skirt), here is some of the latest circus dope from one of those circus writers formerly with that big three-ring Ohio circus—Sells Bros., of Columbus:

RINGLING BROS.' circus is celebrating its fiftieth anniversary this year. There were five brothers. Their home town was Baraboo, Wis. They started out as a wagon show, touring overland and stopping in smaller towns, as well as the large cities. Today they have 200 railroad cars—flat, stock and sleepers. They travel in three sections. The first section is composed of the dining room and kitchen outfit, stock, tents, blacksmith shop and miscellaneous equipment. The second section is called the stock train, which carries the menagerie, work and ring horses. This is the most expensive part of a circus. For that reason this section is run as No. 2 to prevent a "head-on" or rear-end" collision. Men and women are less expensive.

The third section is composed of a car for the executive staff, a club car. The balance of the train is made up of sleepers. There is also a "flying squadron"—a crew that reaches a city 24 hours ahead of the show equipment. With tape line and steel pins they lay out the plan showing how the tented city will be erected. Each pin indicates where a center or side pole is to be placed. The Ringling brothers owe their success to team work, for they now control all the large circuses in the United States. During their wagon-show days, Al took up the duties as equestrian director; Otto was treasurer; Alf T. ran the side-show and concert; Charles was advertiser and press man; while John was general agent and contractor.

The first four mentioned brothers have answered the final call, while the remaining brother, John, is not enjoying good health. He did not accompany the circus to New York City, but remained in Sarasota, Fla., where the winter quarters are located. Charles R. Hutchinson, venerable treasurer of the Ringling-Barnum Circus, is serving his forty-fourth year in that capacity.

THANK YOU, MR. MURRAY.

I wish to express my appreciation for the enjoyable day spent yesterday on the Indian Spring Golf Course. While I was unsuccessful as a winner in the contest, I enjoyed the fellowship of the men from different departments of the Federal Service and the day, as a whole, was well spent.

I think the tournament was quite a success, so thanks to you and anyone who may have been responsible for the treat.—F. LeRoy Murray, 6519 Eighth street northwest.

PASTOR SAYS TODAY IS 'AGE OF DELUSION'

Dr. Clinchy Declares World Puts Material Things Before Spiritual.

"We are living in an age of delusion today because men are inclined to put material things before spiritual things," declared the Rev. Russell J. Clinchy, pastor of Mount Pleasant Congregational Church, in his sermon yesterday.

Taking for his subject "Facing an Age of Delusion" the Rev. Dr. Clinchy said that "we are in an age of delusion and cynicism today because we are in the grip of a certain delusion about life. We are under the delusion that prosperity and progress can be made only in times of security and that therefore security must be established before we can look or hope for any progress of mankind.

"The delusion lies not in any theory of whether progress is being made, but in the belief that there is ever any time in life that can be called a time of security. We are always lead to believe that there are times when men are secure and we believe that we can see and point out those times of security.

Pharisees Deluded.

"The Pharisees believed that Jesus could tell when the kingdom of God was coming and that when that kingdom of God came you could look around and see the signs of security; but Jesus asked them to remember that the kingdom of God—of surety and security—never came so that you could see that it was here.

"We have changed the definition. We say that the periods of surety and security are those when everybody appears to be prosperous. Therefore we say that we can make progress in a period like that and immediately we set about enlarging and increasing everything we have been doing. Under the same definition we say that we can make no progress in other times because we have no visible resources.

"If Jesus had been making his valuations upon such definitions as these he would have declared Palm Sunday as the day of security and gladness, for any one on that day could see that the day of prosperity had come. On the other hand, that experience of his five days later, when a mob followed him to Calvary, was a moment of despair and insecurity. The delusion rests upon the belief that there is any time in life when the outward circumstances make security.

Outstanding Americans.

"We have been deluded into believing that the possession of health, wealth and prosperity—when life goes on like a song—and the blessings in their many forms means that we are secure and that the lack of these blessings means that we are insecure—that security is based upon material things. That is the delusion that has brought us to this period of panic and insecurity.

"There were two outstanding Americans in the last generation who showed forth this so clearly. Abraham Lincoln and Charles W. Elliott. Theirs were lives of security and progress. One came from a log cabin and illiterate parentage, the other from Beacon Hill in Boston, from cultured and educated forebears."

Argentina and Chile Sign New Trade Treaty

Buenos Aires, May 28 (A.P.).—Argentina and Chile signed a trade treaty today, the thirty-first anniversary of the conclusion of their boundary treaty.

The 1902 treaty prevented war between the two nations, and today's is expected to end permanently commercial warfare, which intensified since the depression until Argentine and Chilean commerce virtually ceased.

Pleasure Car Licenses In Alexandria Increase

The fees from automobile licenses issued in Alexandria by Claude W. Fletcher, in charge of the sale of State licenses, for the first ten weeks in 1933 showed an increase of $4,842.55 over the same period of 1932, for pleasure cars, the licenses for this year numbering 4,951, as against 4,777 for last year. The sale of tags for trucks showed a decrease, there having been 615 tags sold this year as against 627 in 1932, with a decrease in revenue of $341.

The week ended April 29 saw the largest sale of the year, with 1,900 tags issued that week. The time limit for procuring the new licenses had been extended until May 15.

MOTOR CRASH FATAL TO UNIVERSITY HEAD

Dr. McGlothlin, President of Furman, Succumbs at Gastonia, N. C.

Gastonia, N. C., May 28 (A.P.).—Dr. William Joseph McGlothlin, president of Furman University, Greenville, S. C., died in City Hospital here today of injuries suffered in an automobile wreck May 16.

Death came at 9:25 a. m. An hour previously the 65-year-old educator and Baptist leader had lapsed into unconsciousness.

With him when the end came were his sons, W. J. McGlothlin, jr., and James H. McGlothlin; a brother, the Rev. James T. McGlothlin of Nashville, Tenn., and a brother-in-law, Dr. William H. Williamson, of Charlotte.

Mrs. McGlothlin was killed in the same wreck in which her husband was injured. At the time they were on their way to Washington to attend the Southern Baptist convention, of which Dr. McGlothlin was a past president.

Near here their automobile, driven by W. J. McGlothlin, jr., collided with that of E. A. McCann, of Charlotte. McCann was fatally injured, dying a few hours after the wreck.

Nursing School To Close Sept. 5

The training school for nurses, heretofore operated in connection with the Alexandria Hospital, will be discontinued September 5, and the work which has been performed by the student nurses will be conducted by graduate nurses, in accordance with a plan adopted by many hospitals throughout the country.

The 20 student nurses now in the school will, as a result of the change, be transferred to the University of Virginia Memorial Hospital to complete their courses, if present plans are carried out. Their places in the hospital will be filled by five graduate nurses.

There are ordinarily about 25 student nurses at the hospital. Seven of the present number will be graduated on June 1.

Miss Fanny Carter, superintendent of the hospital, speaking of the proposed change, paid tribute to the excellent work, cooperation and zeal displayed by the nurses, and expressed regret at the abandonment of the student nurse system.

Dr. W. C. Welburn to Lecture.

The eighth lecture in the series by physicians of Arlington County to the nursing group will be given Wednesday evening at the Clarendon Health Center by Dr. W. C. Welburn, of Ballston.

Culbertson on Bridge

By ELY CULBERTSON

694

THE UNPROTECTED KNAVE

THE squeeze in Bridge is based upon the principle that one body cannot be in two places at the same time. In other words, through control of the time factor, a player with certain holdings who at first thinks he can defend a situation is later brought ruefully to recognise that such is not the case. The squeeze play at Bridge has many forms. One of the most interesting squeezes that I have seen recently was one it was my own pleasure to execute in a recent practice match with Mrs. Culbertson as my partner against Messrs. Raymond Balfe and Waldemar von Zedtwitz. The hand, I feel quite sure, did not appear at all difficult, so far as defense was concerned, to either of my expert opponents, but, as the play developed, they found their difficulties increasing.

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.

Mr. Culbertson.

Mrs. Culbertson.

The bidding:

2♡	Pass	3◇	Pass
3♡	Pass	4♡	Pass
4NT	Pass	5◇	Pass
5NT	Pass	6◇	Pass
6♡	Pass	Pass	Pass

The noteworthy feature of the bidding is the use of the Four-Five no-trump Convention to show the possession of all the Aces. The Opening lead was the club King by Mr. Balfe. I won, of course, with the Ace, and laid down three rounds of hearts, drawing the adverse trumps. Next, in order to test the diamond situation, I laid down the Ace of diamonds, and the Queen—obviously a singleton—fell from the hand of Mr. von Zedtwitz. The situation did not look so bright. While it was true I could establish a diamond in Dummy, it was valueless to me because, when established, the hand would be void of entries.

However, there was an alternative line of play. I followed with three more rounds of trumps. Obviously, Mr. Balfe must retain the remaining three diamonds, and he must find three discards. His first discard was the club Ten. His second was the spade 7, and on the last heart he discarded the club Queen, realizing the necessity of preventing a lead through the King of spades, which he was convinced must be held by his partner. When the club Knave was led, however, the inexorable working of the squeeze continued. Mr. Balfe must still retain the three diamonds. Hence he was forced to drop another spade. The situation for which I had been working had now developed. I led a diamond to the Dummy, confident that my tactics had been successful. The Queen of spades was then led, West covered, I played the Ace, and from Mr. Balfe's hand dropped the now unguarded Knave. Now I made not only my contract, but an overtrick as well, taking the twelfth and thirteenth tricks with the spade Ten and the remaining high diamond.

TOMORROW'S HAND

If you, as South, had reached a contract of three notrump on the hand below, which was doubled by West, would you stand by your guns or run?

CONGRESS SQUADS CROWDING CAMPS

Democrats and Republicans Training for Annual Battle of Bats.

With the annual Democratic-Republican congressional baseball contest only two weeks away, the "training camps" of the contesting squads have taken on an air of increased activity and the question of who will form the starting line-up is commencing to interest the members of Representative Edward Kelly, of Illinois, manager of the Democratic team, has ordered his warriors under Capt. Russell Elsey, of Mississippi, to report at Griffith Stadium tomorrow morning at 9 o'clock for a real workout. The players are expected to report in uniform and to come prepared to show their wares.

"Any man who lands in the regular line-up of this team will have to qualify," Representative Kelly said yesterday. "We have some mighty good rookies who slipped in on the last Democratic landslide and they are ready to give the regulars a battle for almost any position on the team. We have only sixteen men in our squad at present, but hope by Monday to have enough rookies to give us two teams and some substitutes so that we can have a regular workout."

Representative Charles J. Millard, of New York, manager of the G. O. P. squad, is still optimistic. "We still have most of our veterans," he said yesterday, "and we also have a few rookies, one or two of whom are going to be a real surprise to our Democratic opponents. If Vincent Carter's wing continues in the good shape that it is at present, I believe that we can take the measure of the Democrats again this year."

The members of the Republican squad are Charles J. Millard, of New York, manager; Vincent Carter, of Wyoming, captain; Leo E. Allen, of Illinois; Everett M. Dirkson, of Illinois; W. P. Lambertson, of Kansas; U. S. Guyer, of Kansas; Richard M. Wigglesworth, of Massachusetts; Fred A. Hartley, jr., of New Jersey; Hamilton Fish, jr., of New York; John D. Clarke, of New York; Clarence E. Hancock, of New York; Walter G. Andrews, of New York; Edward W. Goss, of Connecticut; James Wolfenden, of Pennsylvania; George F. Brumm, of Pennsylvania; Clyde Kelly, of Pennsylvania; Michael J. Muldowney, of Pennsylvania; George W. Blanchard, of Wisconsin, and Gardner R. Withrow, of Wisconsin.

For the Democrats Representative Kelly, of Illinois, is manager, and Russell Elsey, of Mississippi, team captain. Other members of the squad are Lamar Jeffers, of Alabama; Thomas McMillan, of South Carolina; James Meade, of New York; Richard Richards, of South Carolina; Millard F. Caldwell, of Florida; Jennings Randolph, of West Virginia; Charles West, of Texas; Martin F. Smith, of Washington; Patrick Bolin, of Pennsylvania; John Wood, of Georgia; John O'Conner, of New York; Thomas O'Malley, of Wisconsin; John Y. Brown, of Kentucky, and Ray Cannon, of Wisconsin.

DR. STEELE DEFINES VALUES IN ADDRESS

Baccalaureate Speaker Raps Stock Market Fortunes Before Graduates.

Unearned wealth and cheap publicity were given as xamples of false ideas of values by Dr. S. Tagart Steele, jr., rector of St. David's Protestant Episcopal Church, Baltimore, in the baccalaureate address to the University of Maryland graduating class at College Park yesterday.

Criticising those whose ideas of values permit them to amass large fortunes in the stock market without contributing anything worthwhile to mankind, Dr. Steele declared that "money values depend upon honest effort and the production of something that is useful."

"Such values do not change," he declared, adding that service to other people was emphasized as "that abiding value" which would prove of benefit to the graduates. "We are all members of one society; we rise and fall together," he reminded.

Dr. Pearson Presides.

Dr. Steele was awarded the honorary degree of doctor of divinity by the university in 1927.

Dr. Raymond A. Pearson, president of the university, presided over the exercises, which were held in the auditorium.

Dr. Albert F. Woods, former president, read a selection from the scripture; the Rev. Ronalds Taylor gave the invocation, and the Rev. E. A. Matzen the benediction.

Prior to the baccalaureate exercises six members of the senior class were selected for membership in the Women's Senior Honor Society that recognizes conspicuous attainment. Those chosen were Sarah Louise Short, of Baltimore; Margaret M. Burdette, of Mount Airy, Md.; Helen McFerran, Cumberland, Md.; Gertrude Nicholls, Boyds, Md.; E. Louise Reinohl, Hyattsville, Md., and Lois Belfield, of Washington.

Club Women Guests.

Members of the executive order of the State Federation of Women's Clubs will be guests at May Day exercises at the University this afternoon, when the school queen will be crowned.

The senior class will hold its banquet in Washington, Thursday evening. Friday will be given over to class day with the giving of the senior play, the unveiling of the memorial terrapin, gift of the class of 1933, and the awarding of honors and prizes.

Saturday, from 9:30 o'clock until the commencement exercises at which Gov. Ritchie will give the address to the 686 graduates of the Baltimore and College Park Schools, will be given over to the alumni. There will be the annual election and luncheon and class reunions.

Music Club Federation To Meet in Philadelphia

Minneapolis, May 28 (A.P.).—Philadelphia was selected as the 1935 convention city of the National Federation of Music Clubs at a meeting today of its board of directors.

The tentative date was set for the latter part of April, definite days to be named later. Philadelphia was selected over St. Louis by a vote of 16 to 11. The 1933 biennial convention of the federation ended Saturday.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

IT seems that the winter of a certain young man's discontent has overtaken him in the early summer.

Ian Keith is an actor of such sincerity of purpose, and such fine attainment in roles that are geared to his lofty concepts of Thespianism, that he has scant patience with parts that "won't play well." It was such a part he felt he had as the young author of prolific output in Edouard Bourdet's comedy of "Best Sellers" when it was accorded its American premiere here in the National Theater.

Ian Keith

During a lengthy visit in this office toward the end of the Washington engagement, Mr. Keith admitted that he had played the part in a different tempo and different key at every performance during the week without even once having hit upon an interpretation that suited him.

This is wholly understandable to those who are familiar with Mr. Keith's activities during the past few years. It was about four or five years ago that he departed Broadway at the top of his form and deserted a constantly growing following. He was appearing then in the leading role of Herman Shumlin's production of "The Command Performance."

Proceeding at once to the West Coast, Ian Keith not only did work of some note in the cinema, but won a position as first actor of the Pacific shore line, from San Diego to Seattle, in his own productions of the foremost New York hits—"The Firebrand," "He Who Gets Slapped," "The Command to Love," "Peter Ibbetson," "Elizabeth the Queen," "Grand Hotel" and even "The Copperhead," in which, of necessity, he appeared as a stoop-shouldered and bewhiskered Civil War backwoodsman, the role in which Lionel Barrymore created one of his most memorable impressions in the East.

It may be gathered from this list that Mr. Keith does not aspire to be known as one of the foremost of the farceurs. He is an actor of serious mein and purpose—as witness his production of "Hamlet" on the Coast, played in the Elizabethan manner and hailed as a genuine achievement by the most erudite of the critics.

His greatest enthusiasm while in Washington was aroused by the possibility that sometime he might be able to appear in a Shakespearean performance under the perfect auspices afforded for the fullest impressiveness of the Bard's works by the Elizabethan Theater that constitutes one of the most notable features of the Folger Shakespeare Memorial Library.

In view of all these facts, circumstances and considerations, it is about what those who know him would expect that Mr. Keith should retire from the cast of "Best Sellers" in favor of one whose temperament and tastes are more minutely attuned to the frivolous requirements of Mrs. Bennett's slightly denatured adaptation of M. Bourdet's Parisian hit than his own.

It is a bit on the side of one of the theater's conspicuous ironies, however, that Mr. Keith's recent accomplishments should be celebrated in the same New York Sunday dramatic sections as announce the succession of Rex O'Malley to the part he has so recently relinquished.

During the course of a Sabbath evening telephone conversation that should be authentic in at least a few of its more factual aspects, it has just been imparted to these wagging ears—as Mr. Heinl probably already knows and has informed his radio enthusiasts—that Ed Wynn will get his new broadcasting system into active operation not later than the middle of June, the local outlet being, as everybody knows, Station WOL.

Mr. Wynn, it would appear, either will have to get going by that time, or very shortly thereafter, or else postpone his network inaugural for a considerable period.

My guess concerning a matter in a field that Mr. Heinl knows so much more about than I do, is prompted by the announcement, just to hand, that "The Chief" will leave New York for the Coast during the first week in July, to begin work on a new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer screen production that will go into work not later than July 15.

It is said that no interruption of the comedian's current broadcasts will be entailed by the Coast journey, for it is planned to continue his regular air sessions from California. Launching a new national network, however, might be something entirely else again.

This will be Wynn's first trip to the Coast to make a motion picture, inasmuch as his two earlier films, "Rubber Heels" and "Follow the Leader," were both made in studios on Long Island.

Arthur Caesar is now at work on the scrip for the picture, which will be directed by "Chuck" Reisner.

"The picture I am going to do," says Mr. Wynn, "will be an original. It will have some musical elements, but they will be a logical part of the comedy sequence and not just grafted on. The picture will embody some of the ideas I feel I've popularized on the air."

So-o-o-o-oo!

George Prentice, one of the foremost Punch-and-Judy experts left to the American Theater, as may be conclusively proved by a visit to Loew's Fox this week, will entertain the crippled and bedridden little children at Children's Hospital this morning. Mr. Prentice is transporting all of his considerable paraphernalia to the hospital in order to give the youngsters the complete performance that they would see if they could attend the theater.

Richard Barthelmess, who arrived in New York with Mrs. Barthelmess and a party of friends a few days ago after a sea voyage from Los Angeles, has had to cancel his projected lengthy vacation abroad and plans, instead, to return to the West Coast studios at Burbank after a three-weeks' rest in the East.

Although he just completed "Heroes for Sale," he will begin his next picture as soon as a suitable story can be found. He will look for story material while in New York, attending as many of the current plays as possible and interviewing writers. Now, if you are a writer——

Billing is already up for a swanky soiree at the Willard tomorrow afternoon and early evening—5 to 7 p. m., if you must have chronometrical precision, and I sure am curious to know if there is any such word as "chronometrical"!—the occasion being an "Old Fashioned Sunday School Picnic," at which the host will be "Hot Shot" Meakin, manager of RKO-Keith's, and the guest of honor, Gene Dennis, the charming young psychic, who makes you glad your mind is a complete blank when you are talking with her!

It will probably add a great deal to Miss Dennis' enjoyment of the occasion if someone can only manage to think up a lot of good questions to ask her!

Afterthoughts on the week-end prowling about the showshops: Among the personalities exploited in the current newsreels are Tom Mooney, the former Crown Prince of Germany and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Walker, sometime of New York, but now of Cannes, the Riviera, Paris and points between...Tom Mooney, out of prison for his new trial, got all choked up when he tried to mention all those who had helped him in his fight for freedom...The erstwhile Clown Prince received both hisses and cheers from Friday's first audience, indicating whatever it happens to indicate... So did Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Walker, indicating precisely the same thing... Maxine Doyle, whose succession of stunning gowns week after week continues to be the envy of the Earle's feminine patronage, despite the fact that she is an honor pupil in her second term at Clifford Brooke's Academy of the Dramatic Arts, can not accept an assignment with the National Theater Players, like Miss Gwynn, Miss Barti, Miss Mayo and the rest, account conflict with her regular appearances as mistress of ceremonies on Thirteenth street . . . S'too bad . . . Tess Gardell's (Aunt Jemima) radio blurbs about all that shrinkage from an "eat-all-you-want-and-grow-thin" diet, evidently were just so many radio blurbs . . . There ain't no shrinkage . . . It wouldn't be the same Tes if there were, and that would be too unfortunate . . . Especially when she goes into her dance! . . . Herb Williams' final curtain-bows to waltz time are an inspired bit of foolery . . . But then, so is Herb Williams!

Anyhow, your garden hose will last longer with all these showers, even if your straw hat and your temper won't!

MIDSHIPMEN HEAR JUNE WEEK SERMON

Commander Lash Preaches Before Class of 435 at Annapolis.

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., May 28.—Before a typical commencement week gathering that crowded the portals of the Naval Academy Chapel, Commander Frank H. Lash, chaplain, today preached the baccalaureate sermon to the 435 midshipmen of the class of 1933 who on Thursday will receive their diplomas from the hands of President Roosevelt. The congregation included many fathers, mothers, sweethearts and friends of the graduates, from every section of the Nation.

"Dreams and Visions" was the theme of Chaplain Lash's discourse. At the outset he recalled the fact that his tour of duty at the academy began at the same time the class was admitted, four years ago, and is ending with their graduation. He referred to the pleasure of his close association with their academic careers, to which, he said, he was bound by the ties of a common experience.

Speaking of the patriotic devotion and service expected of the graduates, Chaplain Lash then said that while this is an hour of rejoicing for them, elsewhere throughout the land on Thursday, in response to a proclamation by the President, assemblies will pay tribute to the 73 comrades who so gallantly met death in the Akron disaster.

Chaplain Lash reminded the young men that they are about to enter a new relationship with their country that entails the tremendous responsibility of being one of its chosen and prepared defenders. Referring to the unprecedented situation that only 50 per cent of the class will be commissioned for active service, yet, Chaplain Lash said, each one will have his part in shaping and maintaining the liberties and ideals of loyal American citizenship.

"The word I would bring to you with all the force in my power," the chaplain said, "concerns your attitude as the servants of today and leaders of tomorrow in accepting this great challenge, and the manner in which you shall discharge it."

Senor Rodriguez is honorary president of the recently organized Lions Club, of Mexico City, Hyer explained. Arrangements for the convention were made here today by directors of the organization.

MEMORIAL SERVICE HELD BY VETERANS

Col. Markey Speaks Before Joint Exercises at Silver Spring.

Memorial Day is a challenge to patriotic Americans to carry on in memory of the Nation's honored dead, Col. D. John Markey, commanding officer, First Infantry Maryland National Guard, declared at memorial exercises at the Silver Spring National Guard Armory yesterday.

Col. Markey, chairman of the American Legion graves registration committee, talked on the cemetery in France in which the Nation's dead are buried. He told of plans whereby within a few years every veteran's grave will be identified and marked.

The exercises were held jointly by Cissel-Saxon Post, American Legion; the Service Company, First Infantry, Maryland National Guard, and Company K, 115th Infantry, Veterans Association. The opening prayer was given by the Rev. Ralph D. Smith, pastor of Woodside M. E. Church, and the benediction by the Rev. Thomas A. Calman, pastor of St. Michael's Catholic Church.

A wreath from the American Legion Auxiliary was laid at the base of the memorial stone by Commander John J. Geary, of Cissel-Saxon Post. Taps were sounded and volleys fired by members of the service company.

Prior to the memorial services, the company attended Grace Episcopal Church. Col. Markey commended this practice and said that he will recommend that each of the twenty companies of the First Regiment do likewise in the future.

Virginia Jenckes To Address Police

Representative Virginia Jenckes, of Indiana, will address members of the Policeman's Association of the District at a memorial service to be held in honor of dead members in the auditorium of Wilson Teachers College, June 11.

Among other speakers will be Representative Magnus Johnson, of Minnesota, and James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations. The Rev. Howard E. Snyder, chaplain of the George Washington Post, American Legion, will pronounce the invocation, and the Rev. Victor O. Anderson, chaplain of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will give the benediction. Capt. Milton D. Smith will preside as chairman. Assisting will be Detective Sergt. H. K. Wilson, Lieut. H. W. Lineburg and Privates W. C. Adcock and M. B. Moore.

Music will be furnished by the Washington Gas Light Co.'s Band. Private Julius Moeller will sound taps.

The Meanderer

Surveys Picnic Equipment, Lists Picnic Food Suggestions and Finds Watermelons Becoming More Plentiful.

From England, where outdoor life is important to every family, come many of our best devices for pleasurable picnics. Like a walking stick is one such device, introduced from England. One of the picknickers may carry the stick and when it is sandwich time, may poke it into the ground, in upright fashion, and attach six most efficient little racks of metal, capable of holding a sandwich and a glass or bottle. A shop which displays unique merchandise of many sorts showed this "picnic stick" to the Meanderer.

Durable striped material covers a most satisfactory lunch kit, which has among its fittings plates and cups of unbreakable ware and two vacuum bottles, one for cold liquids and another wide-mouthed container for hot foods. This kit sells in the shop referred to above.

A pitcher for beer, six mugs, a pretzel jar, and a mustard jar, all decorated with hunting scenes, comprise a new set for beer parties or picnics showing in a shop out Connecticut avenue way.

A metal picnic lunch kit of family size, with compartments for needed equipment, including an ice container, sells for only $1.69 in a drug store. Pint thermos bottles sell in the same drug store for as little as 59 cents. Paper lunch sets composed of plates, cups, napkins, forks and spoons, for eight persons, sell for 25 cents, and vacuum jugs, crockery-lined, in gallon sizes, cost 98 cent to $3.98 in the same drug store.

Frogs' legs may appeal to summer appetites if they are purchased from the fresh supplies to be offered at 50 cents a pound in a women's farm-to-home-market on upper Wisconsin avenue Wednesdays. Frogs' legs measure five or six to a pound.

Eighty paper napkins for 9 cents is a picnic item worthy of note, as are the following suggestions from a chain store's supplies: Four kinds of pickles 15-ounce jars, your choice, 10 cents; 80 sheets of waxed paper, 5 cents; deviled ham at its lowest price, 5 cents a can; one pound of frankfurters and six rolls for 25 cents; ripe olives of high grade, 15 cents a can, and a half-pound of cheese and a half-pound of crackers, both for 23 cents.

Watermelons may be a welcome part of the holiday menu. The first watermelons of the summer are arriving in Washington, and usually sell for less than 75 cents in retail stands.

A jar of white clover honey from Vermont would be a choice bit to pull out of the picnic basket. The Meanderer saw a new shipment of such honey in a shop on Ninth street noted for the good quality of its wares.

What Today Means

By MARY BLAKE

"GEMINI."

IF May 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:15 a. m. to 9:40 a. m., from 4:45 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger periods are from 12 noon to 1:30 p m. and from 7:15 p. m. to 8:30 p. m.

The child born on this May 29 will have a placid disposition; seldom will he appear disturbed or ruffled. He will plunge himself into his studies, work or play and will be oblivious of all that goes on around him. Do not expect the spectacular from this little one, but count on getting results, for you will find him ever on the job.

If May 29 is the date of your birth, you are a vigorous person and not a little combative. You antagonize others, often without realizing it, by your attitude and manner of speech. In your more youthful days you quite likely were inclined to puntuate your more forceful utterances with blows. You think and move rather rapidly; this faculty of yours usually keeps you a bit ahead of the other man and consequently you are a trying person to work with. You are not endowed with all the patience you might have.

Born on May 29, you are not interested in great financial return as an end in itself. You prefer to devote your time, energies and thought to some pursuit which appeals strongly to your imagination, with the feeling that your financial requirements will be met as a result of the rightful use of your abilities. You probably will not be listed among the millionaires and you may count it as certain that you will never be found among those destitute. The women are most interested in a gay social existence and are inclined to be a bit superficial. They have rather a pleasing taste for dress, and appear always "nattily" attired.

Successful people born on May 29:

NEW TARIFF PLAN.

All doubt that President Roosevelt would seek power to revise tariff duties in conformity with agreements that may be made at the World Economic Conference has been removed. The President will send to Congress this week a bill delegating specific authority for executive adjustment of duties either upward or downward. It will be one of the most important measures in the Roosevelt reconstruction program.

This tariff bill has given the administration a great deal of trouble. It has been rewritten a number of times. Several weeks ago there were indications that the measure was ready to send to Capitol Hill. But new difficulties arose, and there is reason to believe that the objectives of the administration have also undergone major changes. At first the measure was apparently designed merely to bring about a cooperative effort with other nations to reduce the "outrageous trade barriers" which Secretary Hull speaks so much about. As it is now contemplated the measure would give the President power to offer concessions at the economic conference and to swing the big stick if no satisfactory agreement should be forthcoming.

In its present form the tariff bill would give the President authority to revise duties either up or down. New duties would go into effect immediately after being proclaimed by the Executive, but Congress, if in session, would have the right to reject them within sixty days. Some limitation as to the changes the President might make will be added to the bill, but the extent of that limitation has not yet been decided.

This bid for power over the tariff is even more sweeping than was expected. Apparently the President intends to ask for a virtual delegation of the tariff powers to himself, with only broad limits as to the rate changes he might make. The provision that Congress might set aside the President's action is meaningless, because Congress always possesses the tariff-making power and cannot divest itself of that power. The effect of the measure, as it was outlined by Senator Robinson, would be to give the President discretionary powers in tariff making, while Congress would retain only veto powers over his action. That is a direct reversal of the manner in which tariffs have been made since the time of George Washington.

If this plan is enacted into law its constitutionality will be immediately challenged. The Supreme Court has ruled many times that Congress can not delegate its legislative powers. Congress may lay down a formula and direct the President to make tariff rates conform thereto, but it has no authority to grant the President discretion to make tariff rates. Nor is this situation changed by the provision that Congress might undo what the President had done.

Perhaps objection will be made to this formula because of the uncertainty it would introduce into the tariff structure. New rates might be put into effect by the President only to be set aside by Congress within a few weeks or months. The result would be extreme confusion for the industries concerned.

Since the action of Congress is necessary to make tariff changes, Congress may decide that it is more practical to formulate a general policy under which the President may negotiate with foreign governments, with the proviso that the resulting agreements must be approved by the House and Senate.

FARM RELIEF—WHEN?

Application of the farm relief act is again receiving attention in the Department of Agriculture. Several weeks ago President Roosevelt was of the opinion that the taxes which may be levied under this act for the benefit of farmers should not be applied during the tariff truce. More recently, however, the State Department has informed Secretary Wallace that it does not regard the special levies on staple agricultural products as a violation of the tariff truce. No protests against levying these special taxes on domestic crops and imports alike have been heard. Other nations have made so many reservations to the tariff truce that they could not consistently object to the application of the farm duties. Indications are that this obstacle to making the farm relief act immediately effective has been largely overcome.

But other difficulties have arisen. The first of June is near at hand. Nearly all crops for harvest this year are already in the ground. How can the Government proceed with a program for reduction of acreage at this late date? The Farm Board once suggested that the dilemma of overproduction be met by plowing under one-third of the surplus crops. But the idea was greeted with derision. It is not to be supposed that the new czar of agriculture will adopt this idea. Yet if benefits are to be paid, how are crops to be curtailed when they are already planted?

Wheat farmers are making a special appeal. Indications are that there will be a short wheat crop this year. Hence, the growers are asking for "benefits to be made available to wheat producers based on past production yields in effectuation of mutual crop insurance." It would seem that if there is any advantage in the small crop this year, it would redound to the benefit of farmers without the payment of Federal bounties. Wheat prices have already increased notably. But the farmers are seeking still further rewards for nature's beneficence.

The loss of $350,000,000 in the last attempt to maintain high agricultural prices without curtailment of production is a warning to the administration not to venture again into this field. Payment of benefits a year before acreage reduction can be achieved would certainly start the agricultural experiment off on the wrong foot, and give farmers a distorted idea of what they may expect from the domestic allotment plan. Yet the postponement of farm relief until 1934 would arouse violent protests from the farm belt. Farmers have been promised relief and they do not expect to wait another year for it.

Officials of the Department of Agriculture seem to be perplexed by this dilemma. They are deliberating carefully before making any decision. In view of their earnest desire to make the domestic allotment plan a success, they may be expected to proceed with great caution.

NATIONAL WEALTH.

The physical assets of the United States still represent the tidy sum of $247,000,000,000. This is a decrease from the total national wealth in 1929 of $115,000,000,000, or a loss of slightly less than one third. These figures, announced by the National Industrial Conference Board, also indicate that the last year of the big boom was far from recording the peak value of Uncle Sam's holdings. In 1920 national wealth was rated at $488,700,000,000, but this was based on the inflated values of that period.

These divergent estimates of national wealth in different years are not an accurate measure of physical units owned, the figures representing rather market values, on the theory of possible general sale. The inflationary period of twelve years ago resulted in high prices, while recent deflation has caused a decided reduction in the dollar value of the same physical assets. In 1912 national wealth was only $186,000,000,000, showing an increase in twenty years, notwithstanding the depreciation of the last few years, of $161,000,000,000.

Farm values, according to the Bureau of Farm Economics, have not fared so well. In comparison with the pre-war period of 1912-14 farm values today show a loss of 27 per cent, of which 3 per cent was added last year. Although from 1929 to 1933 prices for farm products were virtually cut in half, farm values for the same period fell only about one-third. As in the case of national wealth, farm values were highest on record in 1920, exceeding the pre-war values by 70 per cent. At present farm values are only 73 per cent of that former period. These figures are for the national average. New England farms, so far from depreciating in 20 years, show a rating today of 105 per cent, Connecticut making a showing of 124 per cent.

BANKS NEED BANKERS.

One of the principal reasons that so many banks failed in the United States was that a large proportion of them were conducted by men who had had very little experience in the operations of financial institutions of any kind. Thirty thousand banks would require something like 100,000 well-trained bankers for their successful conduct. There is no such number available, and even if there were the small banks could not afford to employ them.

The unfortunate laxity of the forty-eight varieties of State banking laws in many instances permit the opening of a bank with inadequate capital by any one who can provide the minimum requirement and pay for a charter. It became the custom for well-to-do farmers or merchants, when they felt able to retire, to open a bank. When deposits were growing and prices rising, all went well. Under depression conditions long-time real estate loans were unrealizable, loans to bank officials were discovered, and the inevitable end came promptly for many banks.

The amateur banker who starts a neighborhood bank in a small community is at a great disadvantage. He cannot apply hard and fast rules to his friends and life-long associates. He cannot refuse loans right and left and remain the respected benefactor of the community, so he makes loans to good fellows, old cronies, and irresponsibles who need the money. He gains a reputation as the generous leading citizen, but his bank is in trouble with the first sign of hard times.

The new banking bill proposes to guarantee deposits. If the banks themselves cannot provide a big enough fund the losses are to be taken over by the Government. This is one more remedy which begins at the wrong end. Instead of curing the trouble, which is bad banking in small, weak institutions, it puts a premium on this very class of banks. The banking situation in the United States will never be thoroughly remedied until it is reorganized under a strictly national system. The competition today between State and National banks is thoroughly demoralizing. States with a total population less than that of Washington try to support hundreds of banks, when what is needed is one strong central bank with branches where they are really justified.

Banking in the United States must eventually be reformed by having sound banks, amply capitalized and competently managed, instead of providing funds to pay the losses of incompetent or dishonest banking.

WINTER RELIEF WORK.

Looking forward to winter, the American Forestry Association proposes that plans be made to transfer conservation corps activities during the severe months to lands of the public domain. To do this it is considered necessary that Congress put the public domain under administrative control, in order that the conservation work can be properly handled and later preserved.

Of the 275,000 men who will be employed in the work of the conservation corps this summer, a majority will be located in camps established where winter snows will interfere with the continuation of the forest improvements. This is particularly the case in western States. To avoid expensive transfers and interruption of work the Forestry Association points out that large areas of public domain are found in the same general areas, but much of the land is at lower elevation where work of a different character could be continued.

The character of the improvement work needed on the public lands is outlined as revegetation of badly depleted ranges, the building of check dams and reservoirs for control of floods and erosion, the development of springs, construction of drift fences to control grazing, and the construction of administration buildings, roads, fences and telephone lines to facilitate the management and future protection of the improvements. The experts of the association estimate that if adequate Federal authority is given to extend the conservation efforts to the public domain, months of labor can be profitably supplied for 100,000 men.

The Senate committee on foreign relations refuses to concur in the idea of abandoning neutrality. But who ever charged the Senate with unneutrality in locking horns with the President?

It remains to be seen whether the Treasury will issue greenbacks to finance new storage quarters for the Government's increasing volume of gold.

Mr. Average Citizen takes care that no one sees his mouth water as he scans the list of Morgan melon distributions.

It's odd how differences of opinion on economic questions are formed on strictly partisan lines.

PRESIDENTS KNOW

From the Kansas City Star.

Fortunately for President Roosevelt, he seems not so sensitive as his predecessor. And he is prepared for eventualities. His friends say he knows the present "honeymoon period" will not last and he is driving to get through as much of his program as possible while the public is solidly behind him. When the novelty wears off and powerful interests are antagonized by his policies he foresees a different situation. But he is ready for it.

Theodore Roosevelt was able to take public moods philosophically. Criticism stirred him, but he enjoyed a fight so much that he never was depressed by attacks. In the last months of his service in the White House Congress lost its fear of a President who was leaving office and began fighting him. But he gave blow for blow. "I wonder what those jacks up on the Hill think they are doing?" he exclaimed to a group of newspaper men. "Senator So-and-So has sweetbreads for brains."

"The public is with me now," he remarked at the height of his popularity. "But I am not unduly elated. Next year it may be as enthusiastically against me."

The Duke of Wellington had the same philosophy. As the hero of Waterloo he became prime minister of England. But in the course of time he antagonized public opinion so that there was a demonstration against him, and a mob stoned his house in London. To protect his windows in the future the duke had the house equipped with iron shutters.

A few years later he was riding the wave of popularity again and a great crowd assembled to cheer him as he entered his house. He smiled at the demonstrators and then grimly pointed to the iron shutters.

Calvin Coolidge knew he was through with politics, as he repeatedly told his friends. At one of the latest meetings of the railroad committee that he attended, one of the members tried to rass him a bit by inquiring: "Mr. Coolidge, if you should be nominated for President in 1936 and elected, would you refuse to serve?" There was a long and embarrasing pause. Then Mr. Coolidge looked up and said: "Yes, unless Congress would raise the salary."

Debtors rejoice that the eagle's gold claws are clipped.

A few old-fashioned folk still hold with Senator Glass that the Government's word should be good even on its bond.

Some nations act as though disarmament would redound to the exclusive benefit of the United States.

The House of Representatives just couldn't let the bank bill go until it included guaranteed premiums for bad banking.

Our ungulded dollar is boosting the franc toward 5 cents and the pound to $4. Are we altruistic—or something?

It has also been disclosed in the Senate investigation that Counsel Pecora is working for $255 a month—and limelight.

What will Iowa do about it when it learns that nullifying the gold clause will reduce eight times more corporate than farm debts?

Rumors get things twisted; the President did take Secretary Woodin down the river, but he brought him back again.

It is clearer now why Mr. Brookhart was not returned to the Senate. Fate knew that Secretary Wallace would need him to sell farm surplus to Russia.

Fraudulent issues during the last 10 years amounted to $25,000,000,000. Isn't the new security law going to retroact on them?

The American idea of neutrality has been to do business with everybody impartially. Mr. Davis says boycott the aggressor. Senators would refuse to deal with all disputants. Call for one more dictator.

No official announcement yet as to whether Secretary Woodin's theme song on the Potomac was a Symphony Seeing Red or a Rhapsody Feeling Blue.

POINT OF VIEW.

It doesn't matter so much today
That he blunders a stroke or two away,
And the fact that his four-foot putts don't fall
No longer bothers the man at all.
Though he used to curse at his luck and shout
When the ball struck the cup and then jumped out,
Today that is nothing to worry about.

Time was he counted the scores he made
And judged his life by the golf he played,
And a silly thing like a mashie swing
Could ruin the loveliest day in spring.
He thought joy hinged on a brassie shot,
Or the sort of drive from the tee he got,
And whether the ball flew straight or not.

But trouble has come to us all, and he
No longer cares what his score may be.
He has learned that golf is just a game,
And whatever the shot, life stays the same.
He is grateful now for the chance to play!
Since a need for courage has come his way
A few putts missed can not spoil his day.

You Can Hatch a Hawk Under a Hen, But You Can't Feed It Corn.
By ROBERT QUILLEN

THIS is advice to people who have a genius in the family—or a near-genius with the temperament of an artist.

Let us assume that the freak is a boy, though genius is no respecter of sex.

He is smarter than other boys, and he knows it. He is conceited. Those who judge him by ordinary standards accuse him of swell-head and yearn to "take him down a peg or two."

But he can't be judged by ordinary standards, for he is a freak. Parents and friends who know their psychology will judge and treat him as a distinct and peculiar species.

He isn't a braggart or a show-off. He merely assumes that all who know him are interested in what he does, and shows them his good work to win their approval.

They will give it generously if they are wise, for he is the most sensitive of all earth's creatures. A word of praise inspires him to a frenzy of new effort; an ungenerous criticism cuts the solid earth from beneath his feet and drops him into the blackest depths of despair.

Being abnormally sensitive, he will hear criticism where none is spoken. If his legs are bowed and a proud and tactless parent calls his attention to the beautifully straight legs of an older brother, the taunt will rankle in his heart for years.

If a normal youth wins a prize, those who love him can jest about it and pretend to believe that he cheated. He will understand and grin his appreciation.

But not the genius. Belittle his prize and his heart will turn sick. It is no time for humor. He has earned praise and he wants it.

That incessant demand for praise is the birthmark of the artist. It is no fault of his. His nature demands praise as plants demand sunshine.

Give it to him in generous portion and in due season he will lift the world to a higher notch, for that is his destiny and his high calling and he is qualified for the job.

Embitter him with taunts or discourage him with misunderstanding and he will take himself to the dogs and the devil.

If the gods have made you the parent or the friend of a genius, buck him up with a daily ration of praise as you hope for your daily bread.

It is a pity to let a rare and useful machine go early to the scrap-heap for want of proper oiling.

A New Moratorium?
Cincinnati Enquirer.

The prospect of a partial moratorium on Germany's foreign debts calls attention to the fact that deflation still is proceeding in some lines. Last year Germany was able to reduce her foreign indebtedness, long and short term, by nearly a half billion dollars. This was possible largely throurgh an excess of exports over imports. Gold reserves are so low that they do not provide even a 10 per cent coverage of outstanding note issues, so there is no possibility of gold shipments to continue payments on foreign debts.

Two factors, in addition to an export surplus, have made possible German payment on her foreign debts. These were the abandonment of reparations payments, and short-term funds in Germany were left there. But even with these aids, it appears no longer possible to continue full payment of interest and amortization installments.

"Private" Bank Not Private.
Brooklyn Eagle.

Far more significant are the revelations regarding the opportunities offered a selected list of individuals to benefit from the purchase of stocks at figures far below market prices. The list of such beneficiaries, headed by former President Coolidge and the present Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. Woodin, is a fairly inclusive roster of leaders in our business, banking, industrial and political life. A private bank that is in a position to grant favors of this kind ceases to be private. Its actions are of paramount public importance. Its business may be conducted in secret, but it is not private in any sense of the word.

We have no sympathy with those who want to tear down a great banking house and deplore the inevitable appeal to prejudice that will follow these revelations. But the time has come to end the kind of practices revealed by this Senate hearing. We need to clean up the whole banking system, and this cleaning should include the House of Morgan.

THE ONCE OVER
By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE CUSSLESS NAVY.

("Admiral R. H. Leigh, commander in chief of the United States Fleet, has forbidden profanity among sailors. He has ordered it eradicated through stern disciplinary measures."—News item.)

Of all the navies on the sea
The one in charge of R. H. Leigh
Was quite the best in rectitude—
It scorned the vulgar and the rude.

He'd have no swearing by his men,
This R. H. Leigh of U. S. N.,
And nothing gave him greater pain
Than language naughty and profane.

He told his sailors they must not Use language that was warm or hot;
"A 'gosh' or 'darn' I think should do,
He said, "for members of the crew."

If they were angry or distraught
He thought a simple "golly" ought
To give an outlet to the mood
As well as exclamations rude.

Should some one step upon his toe
A sailorman should murmur "Oh!"
He never should profanely yell,
"You ——— ———!" or "What the ———!"

When in a major naval fight,
He said, his men should be polite,
Remembering the enemy
Might well resent vulgarity.

Should shot and shell fall on the deck
It should suffice to say, "By heck!"
And if a cutlass reaped his jeans
A sailor's cry should be, "Oh, beans!"

Did sailors sometimes in a stew
Feel moved to use expletives blue?
Then stop and count quite patiently to ten and then say "Gracious me!"

He emphasized that Uncle Sam
Could never stand a hell or damn
When sweeter words a sailor could Obtain, and find them just as good.

"Why use a word that isn't nice
When 'pish' or 'tosh' will quite suffice?"
The Admiral would ask as he Read lessons in propriety.

He told them that on sea or land
A sailor should at all times stand
For pure English undefiled,
No matter how disturbed or riled.

"Profanity must disappear—
It sounds like hell with ladies near,"
Said R. H. Leigh, of U. S. N.,
Each night and morning to his men.

The sailors sighed and said "Okay!"
But when the skipper went away
You ought to hear the language hot—
On second thought you'd better not.

PRIVATE, MY EYE!

Mr. Morgan revealed a good sense of humor on the stand, but he missed a big bet when, in response to the query, "You run a private banking business, do you not?" he did not shoot back, "I thought so until this inquiry began."

Must Be an Income When Rich Men Live on a Grand Scale—Demand for Sales Tax.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial of May 24 entitled "Rich Men Pay No Tax" brings a sore point to attention. We who do not deal in fluctuating securities can establish no losses. We must pay our income tax, though we can not afford to live like the rich. Their living expenses are on a grand scale, but presumably are paid; so, in fact, there must be an income.

The sales tax would help to correct this situation and would reach a lot of people who at present are contributing very little to the support of the Federal Government.

Too Many Conservators of Closed Banks, Thinks Mr. Powell.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I note that there will be one conservator for each of the closed banks now attempting to form the new Hamilton National Bank. Since one man will be president of the merged bank, it seems that one conservator could manage the liquidation of the frozen assets of all of this group of closed banks. This will not only save the salaries of several conservators, but also of several groups of secretaries and clerks, and thus give depositors a higher return on their money. This consolidation of the process of liquidation could be applied to all mergers. The clerks now doing this work will be needed in the branches of the consolidated bank.

DRUG MAKERS FORM NATIONAL INSTITUTE

Dr. M. G. Gibbs, Peoples Stores President, Named as Director.

New York, May 28 (A.P.).—Formation of the Drug Institute of America, through which all divisions of the drug industry will unite in an effort to maintain fair wages and end "destructive and cutthroat competition," was announced today.

A statement said the institute "supported at the outset by leading manufacturers, distributors and retailers in the field" and "will strive for the objectives outlined by President Roosevelt in his industrial recovery program."

The drug industry, thus, is among the first of the major American industries "to mobilize in support of the administration's industrial program," the statement said.

Incorporation papers for the institute have been filed in Albany, N. Y., and temporary executive offices have been opened at 80 Broadway, New York City.

Follows Institutes' Plans.

Patterned somewhat along the lines of the American Iron & Steel Institute and the American Petroleum Institute, the statement said, "the new organization for the drug industry will pledge its members to work together and with the Government and other public agencies for their common good.

"Within the limitations of the new laws, its aims will include the maintenance of a high standard of products, control of output to prevent overproduction, maintenance of fair profits and fair wages, elimination of unfair competition and demoralization of prices and protection of the public in purchasing drug products. It will endeavor to follow the President's suggestion for a 'partnership in planning.'"

A directing counsel, invested with broad powers to carry out the program, will be announced shortly. There will be a council representing the entire industry, of which the value has been placed at two billion dollars.

Membership Defined.

The membership will be drawn from the following divisions:

Manufacturers of pharmaceutical, drug, chemical, trad-marked medicinal, toilet articles; cosmetic and other products generally distributed through the drug store; wholesalers dealing in products generally handled by drug stores; chain retail and independent drug stores; officers and employes of trade associations connected with the drug industry; deans and members of colleges of pharmacy and officers of pharmaceutical associations.

There will be a board of directors of 20 representatives from the various groups within the industry. Some already have been selected and include:

Gibbs Named Director.

S. Bayard Colgate, president, Colgate-Palmolive-Peet Co.; R. W. Johnson, president, Johnson & Johnson; Carleton H. Palmer, president, E. R. Squibb & Son; Wheeler Samnons, acting managing director of the institute; Charles J. Lynn, vice president and general manager, Eli Lilly & Co.; J. L. Johnston, president, Lambert Co.; Ross Treseder, vice president, Coca-Cola Co.; C. R. Walgreen, president, Walgreen Co.; G. M. Gales, president, Louis K. Liggett Co.

Dr. Malcolm G. Gibbs, president of Peoples Drug Stores, has been named a director of the new Drug Institute of America, it was learned here last night.

Office for Capital Slated at Chicago

The Greater National Capital committee of the Washington Board of Trade will establish a Chicago office in the Palmer House during the period of the Century of Progress Exposition, it was announced yesterday by Curtis Hodges, executive director of the committee.

A. Gumpert, of the convention staff, and Mr. Hodges will spend a part of the time during the summer in the Chicago territory.

The Chicago office will be supplied with booklets, maps and posters and assistance will be given sightseeing visitors contemplating a trip to the National Capital. Among the literature to be distributed will be two booklets just completed, "Washington Next" and "Proof From the Greatest of All Convention Cities."

Eastern Air Transport Adds 2 New Schedules

Eastern Air Transport will add two additional schedules to its services between Washington and New York, effective June 1, it was announced yesterday. One will be a southbound trip, the other northbound, and both will carry air passengers and express. The southbound craft will leave Newark Airport at 2:40 p. m., and the northbound plane will depart from Washington at 3 p. m. daily.

Large increases in passenger volume cause the additional schedules to be included. Last month Eastern Air Transport broke all its previous passenger records, and this month shows an increase of more than 1,000 passengers over last month, it was said.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

ON Memorial Day, tomorrow, the entire radio communication system of the country, Government as well as commercial, will be silent for one minute, immediately following the noon-time signal, on the East, Gulf, Lake and West Coasts, in tribute to the radiomen, who have made the supreme sacrifice in the line of duty.

This one minute tribute was inaugurated last year by the Veteran Wireless Operators Association and is again sponsored by that organization. It will be participated in this year by the Navy Coast Guard, Mackay Radio, Radiomarine, Tropical Radio, Bull Line, Southern Radio and other radio communication organizations.

Repeating the procedure used last year, the Coast Guard will release the following general message tomorrow, addressed to all its ships:

"As a fitting memorial to the commercial and military radio operators who have made the supreme sacrifice in the line of duty, all radio equipped units of the Coast Guard are directed to observe a one-minute radio silent period immediately following the time dash at noon tomorrow 30 May period zone plus 5 time will apply to units in the Northern, Eastern and Southern areas zone, plus 8 for those in the Western area period——".

The Navy and the commercial organizations will send similar messages.

Whenever Sherlock Holmes' (Richard Gordon) pronunciation of an English word fails to meet with Watson's approval, the Sherlock of the air promptly hears about it from his studio partner, Leigh Lovel. Gordon recently turned the tables and informed Lovel after a program there was one word he always pronounced wrongly.

"What may that be?" Lovel asked, jamming his monocle into an eye.

"Wrongly," quipped Gordon.

SOMBER, prayerful and joyous traditional melodies of the Hebrews, which have come down through the centuries, will be heard tonight at 8:30 o'clock over Station WRC, when the quartet of the Washington Hebrew Congregation will be heard on the sixth program in the series of sacred music broadcasts by representative Washington choirs, sponsored by the Griffith Consumers Co.

The program arranged by director Atwater will be as follows:

"Fear Not, O Israel" (Spicker), "Sh'ma Yisroel" and "Eso Enai" (Rogers),"Adonoi" (traditional melody arranged by Atwater), "V'shom'ru" (Sparger-Dworsan), "The Lord is My Light" (Stark), meditation from "Thais" (Massenet), violin solo by Sol Minster, "Adon Olom" (traditional melody by Rogers).

"Words and Music" (WMAL, 12 noon) is praised by a friend of ours whose opinion we value. She especially complimented the readings of Harvey Hayes.

"I wish he might have included John Masefield's poem 'to C. M. L.' in the 'Mother's day' program," she said, "but hope sometime later he may give it. Masefield dedicated this poem to his mother."

"Modern Frontiers in Missionary Work" will be described by Bishop Francis J. McConnell (WMAL, 1:30 p. m.).

The Elite Male Quartet will toss its close harmonies at a WJSV microphone every Monday evening at 7:15 o'clock beginning tonight.

The quartet, under the direction of and accompanied by Bob Gotta, is composed of Louis Annis, first tenor; Bill Braithwaite, second tenor; Edwin Steffe, barytone, and Al Masson, bass. Mr. Steffe will be heard in solos occasionally.

JOSEF PASTERNACK, orchestra leader who conducts the Jack Frost Melody Moments program, (WJZ network, 8:30 p. m.), is the possessor of an unusual nickname, "Eagle Ear." It harks back to Pasternack's early days with the Victor Co. He was musical director and musicians under him first gave him the odd title in tribute to his acute sense of absolute pitch.

A thing which always struck us about Mr. Pasternack is his strong resemblance to Beethoven.

The Maxwell House Show Boat, has what is probably the largest cast of any regular radio feature. There are 67 members. The entire group dashed in a parade of taxicabs from the broadcasting studios to a Broadway theater after last week's broadcast to be the theater guests of Lanny Ross, tenor of the hour, who was making a personal appearance over the footlights. Then the entire crowd dashed back to the studios for the repeat broadcast to the Pacific Coast network.

Viscount Kikujiro Ishii, Japanese delegate to the World Economic Conference, will deliver his last radio address in the United States before departing for London, over WMAL at 9:15 p. m.

The Playboys, Felix Bernard, Walter Samuels and Leonard Whitcup, piano virtuosi, will return today. Featuring six hands on two pianos, the Playboys will be heard each Monday over WJSV at 10:30 a. m. and Fridays at 10:45.

ADDITIONAL broadcasts from the Chicago Exposition have been booked for the month of June by Columbia, and many other radio possibilities are under consideration. The Burns-Allen-Lombardo combine will figure prominently in two of these broadcasts. A dedication of another building Wednesday at 5:15 will spotlight this well-known group. On this same evening the regular program of the dumb-cracking Gracie, the wise-cracking George, and Lombardo and his orchestra will originate on the exposition grounds at 8 p. m.

The almost incredible speed with which construction has been rushed on the exposition grounds is a story in itself behind this broadcast. When the program was booked the studios existed only on blueprints. A week later representatives of the talented visited the site to find steelwork, roofs, platforms and a portion of the acoustical treatment in the studio group completed. An army of workmen is still in action finishing the project.

Elaborate pick-up plans from all sections of the tract of nearly 600 acres on which the Chicago Exposition is housed is made possible by a huge "patch-board," radio's equivalent to a telephone switchboard. The network lines terminate on this board, and lines installed by a Century of Progress reach out to every point of interest over the grounds.

"The Georgetown Boys' Club" will be the topic of George G. Gillingham (WMAL, 8 p. m.).

A little bit of Glen Echo Park will be brought to Washington and to thousands in other cities every Monday, Wednesday and Friday night beginning tonight. From 10:30 to 11 p. m., Dave MacWilliams and his 18-piece orchestra, which performs in the Spanish Garden Ballroom at the park, will broadcast over WRC, on the three evenings mentioned. This is the first time Glen Echo Park has been on the air.

A New Yorker At Large

By MARK BARRON.

New York—In the days when there was a phonograph in almost every American home—one of the largest individual record-sellers was Pietro Deiro, who used to put an accordion through its paces in such a fashion that he was an idol of the then younger set—sheath skirts and all.

I myself remember his hot rendition of "When the Grown-Up Ladies Act Like Babies," which had the line "you gotta love 'em, that's all."

Deiro passed out of sight, for fashions in popular music changed, and apparently the accordion fell to lower rank, for it wasn't until the other day that, strolling through Greenwich Village, I chanced upon the name outside of a shop selling musical instruments and with the sign: "Accordion Lessons."

The maestro lamented the music of the day (though how inessential it varies from that of 20 years ago I for one can't see) and recalled past glories. He still can make an accordion hum.

Neapolitan Touch.

The Italian district in Harlem (often called "Little Italy") bobbed up in the news at the time of the "baby killer" shooting, which was followed by the murder of Vincent Coll after he had won his sobriquet from it.

Since then it has fallen back into obscurity. It is the district represented for years by Fiorello LaGuardia as representative, though LaGuardia has given way to a Tammany man.

Normally, the district slumbers along, with its shops and restaurants known to the inhabitants but rarely to outsiders.

On feast days, such as the feast of Our Lady of Carmel, it suddenly wakens into color. You can walk block after block in the hot July sun, never hearing a word of English, and seeing only the enormous candles that are given up as votive offerings for curing ailments.

The curious thing about LaGuardia is that he held his seat in Congress, not because of the Italian vote, but because the southern part of the congressional district he represented is solidly Porto Rican.

NATS ROUT WALBERG IN 8TH TO DEFEAT A'S, 7-4

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

WIN, lose or draw yesterday, the Athletics were bound to advance to undisputed possession of third place in the league after the scoreboard in center field revealed that the White Sox had taken it on the chin twice from the Yankees.

Bing Miller had a lot of courage on first base yesterday, but little else. The Old Man River of the A's, who is filling in for the injured Jimmy Foxx, was sucked off first base by Kuhel's dragging bunt in the fifth and Kuhel was across the bag before Miller realized his mistake.

Kuhel was shooting at Miller yesterday. In the eighth, his double whistled by the temporary first baseman so fast that Miller gave up before starting toward the ball.

With Max Bishop unable to get a hit off Stewart, or even chisel one of his bases on balls, he was doing the A's so little good yesterday that Connie Mack replaced him in the sixth with Dib Williams, who promptly rapped out a couple of singles.

Lefty Grove was warming up in back of the stands when Walberg began to falter in the eighth, but by the time Mack got around to calling for Grove, the ball game had been lost, and Mack is not using Grove these days unless the score is at least tied.

The great Grove has found his way into six of the A's last seven ball games in relief roles. He has pitched 18 innings, allowed nine hits and one run during that stretch, which is an indication of the sort of relief pitching that Grove has been doing for the A's who have won 9 of their last 12 games.

The A's are crying for the return of Eric McNair to the infield. The erratic Eddie Cihocki and the equally erratic Dib Williams will hardly do. McNair hurt his arm playing checkers down South. He leaned on it for a two-hour stretch and came up with a kink that is still keeping him out of the line-up.

Ed Coleman made a swell catch of Cronin's bid for an extra base hit with two men still on base in the eighth. He crossed over to his right and took the ball out of the air with a back-hand catch that was a thing of beauty, but the Nats had already done their damage.

Corbett Held Choice Over McLarnin

Welter Title Fight Tonight to Draw 25,000 Crowd.

Challenger Figures to Give Champ a Real Battle.

By PAUL ZIMMERMAN.

LOS ANGELES, May 28 (A.P.).—James Archibald McLarnin, whom the Angel City summarily dismissed as just another fighter after a campaign here eight years ago, returns tomorrow night against Young Corbett 3d, bent on correcting the error.

A baby-faced youngster of 17 was Jimmy then, battling as a flyweight. Now, at 25, he has challenged the right of the Fresno, Calif., southpaw to the world's welterweight title.

The bout is scheduled for ten rounds, with Corbett in his first defense of the championship favored by a goodly margin to turn back the threat of the Irish youth from Vancouver, British Columbia.

Corbett is Rated Choice.

Superior strength and weight, coupled with his unorthodox fighting stance, favor Corbett, but McLarnin, with his impressive list of knockouts, his clever footwork and dazzling speed, seems to question the logic of the odds against him.

Corbett, for several years classified as the uncrowned champion of the welterweights, won the title three months ago when he defeated Jackie Fields at San Francisco.

Prior to that time he had defeated young Jack Thompson and Fields in nontitle bouts. In his 141 fights, Corbett has lost decisions only twice.

While Jimmy started fighting a year earlier than Corbett, he has had only 71 bouts, winning 18 by knockouts. George Blake, nationally prominent manager of Fidel Labarba, former world's flyweight champion, will referee the main event, which is due to start at 9:30 p. m. (Pacific standard time).

The fighters will weigh in at 3 p. m. tomorrow, with McLarnin expected to tip the scales at 145 pounds or less. Corbett expects to have no difficulty making the 147-pound limit, but probably will weigh around 149, ringside.

A crowd of 25,000 is expected.

The way the fighters compare:

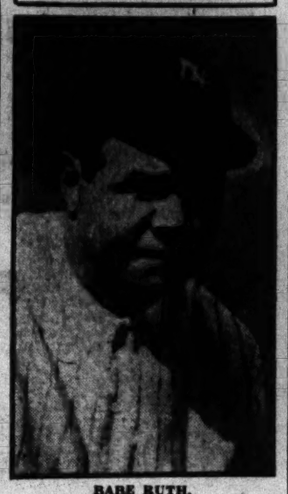
At It Again



BABE RUTH,
who cracked out three home runs as the Yankees took a double-header from the Indians yesterday. This tied him with Lou Gehrig for the league lead.

Ruth Smashes 3 Homers in Double Win

50,297 See White Sox Beaten by 2 to 1 and 9 to 7.

NEW YORK, May 28 (A.P.).—The mighty Babe Ruth confounded his critics today by smashing three home runs in a double-header against the Chicago White Sox and personally conducting the Yankees to a pair of victories, 2 to 1 and 9 to 7, before 50,297 Sunday fans.

The double triumph gave the Yanks three out of four against the Pale Hose, and eight triumphs against three defeats in their home stand against the West. The Babe's three homers gave him a tie for the American League lead with his teammate, Lou Gehrig. Each has clouted nine.

Ruth smote his first four-ply wallop in the first inning of the opener and his second in the first inning of the second game. In the seventh frame of the final tilt Ruth got his third circuit clout.

Simmons Hitless After 18 Games.

Evar Swanson hit a homer for Chicago in the first game. Al Simmons finally went hitless in the second game after carrying his hitting streak to 18 games.

Brisk Training Drill Is Staged by Schmeling

Lake Swannanoa, N. J., May 28 (A. A.).—Max Schmeling went through another brisk workout today in preparation for his heavyweight fight with Max Baer in New York June 8.

The German boxed two rounds each against Lou Barba, Barney Barker and Tommy De Stefano, dropping Baker with a hard right to the jaw.

Fearing Schmeling may go stale with too much boxing, Max Machon, trainer, has called off the workout scheduled for tomorrow.

Coast Player Must Pay For Plane Crash Damage

Los Angeles, May 28 (A.P.).—Orv Mohler, shortstop of the Los Angeles Pacific Coast League team and former University of Southern California football star, must pay $856.76 for repairs to an airplane he rented and crashed at San Bernardino October 5, 1932.

Mohler was sued for approximately $2,000 by Neil McCaffey, owner of the plane, but the court ordered payment only of actual damages.

Cubs Beat Braves Twice, 5-1 and 3-2

Chicago, May 28 (A.P.).—Lonnie Warneke employed his bat as well as his arm again today to help win his seventh pitching victory of the season as the Chicago Cubs won both games of a double-header from Boston, 5 to 1 and 3 to 2.

Auto Driver and Mechanic Die in Speedway Accident

Car of Denver and Hurst Leaps Over Outside Wall and Catches Fire in Practice Run at Indianapolis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 28 (U.P.).—Bill Denver, driver, of Audubon, Pa., and Bob Hurst, mechanic, of Indianapolis, were killed here today when their car cracked up as they were preparing to make a qualifying run for the 500-mile race on Tuesday.

Some 15,000 persons were in the speedway grandstand when Denver lost control of his car on the northeast turn. The car, traveling approximately 100 miles an hour, skidded across and up the banked turn, bounced over the concrete retaining wall and crashed into a tree.

Both men were thrown from the car as it cleared the wall. They were dragged away from the machine, which burst into flames, by guards, and rushed to City Hospital, where they died within an hour. There is a 30-foot drop at the point where the car hurtled the wall.

Denver and Hurst were the only men on the track when the accident occurred. A few minutes before the men took the brick speedway for the trial, Denver told friends that he was going to average 109 miles an hour or better or bust.

The car, its motor hitting smoothly, moved down the backstretch at approximately 110 miles an hour. In the middle of the turn the car suddenly spun like a top and then executed three end over end loops. Its final jump lifted it over the 3-foot retaining wall and sent it plunging to the ground below. It landed wheels up and burst into flames.

Homer Pollard, a track guard, was the first to reach the men, and suffered burns on his hands in stripping them of their burning clothes.

The car was the same machine in which Al Aspen crashed into the wall Monday.

Nine men had qualified before the accident, raising the starting field to 39. The nine who turned the required ten laps at better than 100 M. P. H. were: Merrill Willars, Franklin, Ind.; John Sawyer, Milwaukee; Chet Miller, Detroit; Babe Stapp, Los Angeles; Paul Bost, Charlotte, N. C.; Dave Evans, Columbus, Ind.; Rick Decker, New York; Malcolm Fox, Detroit, and Fred Winnai, Philadelphia.

Summerfelt, 1932 Army Captain, to Be Honored

West Point, N. Y., May 28.—Milton P. Summerfelt, of Benton Harbor, Mich., captain of Army's football team last fall and an "All American" selection in football and lacrosse last season, will be awarded the Edgerton Sabre at the Athletic Review held at the U. S. Military Academy here on Saturday, June 10.

Summerfelt has won six major letters in football and lacrosse, being a regular on both teams, for the past three years. He is a captain in the corps of cadets in command of "M" company, and stands well up in his class academically.

NATS OPPOSE N. Y. TWICE TOMORROW

Team to Rest Today; Whitehill, Crowder Are Due to Hurl.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

A WELL-EARNED rest, without any practice session listed, is given the Nats today, but they will make up for it tomorrow when the usual Decoration Day double-header is listed—and against none other than the league-leading New York Yankees. Manager Joe Cronin has Lefty Earl Whitehill and "General" Al Crowder groomed to do the mound work against the 1932 world's champs and has visions of a double victory. In the five meetings to date between the two teams, the National have bowed only once.

Buddy Myer started yesterday's game with an upset tummy. He had to do considerable running in scoring from first in the second round and, when he raced from first to third in the eighth, he caved in completely and had to withdraw, Sam Rice running for him. But Buddy will be back for more tomorrow and none the worse for wear.

Outfielder Fred Schulte tried out his sore finger in batting practice yesterday and had to give up as the jar made the digit sore. He figures that he will be able to get back into the lineup by Wednesday or Thursday, although Skipper Joe Cronin is not quite so optimistic.

Pitcher Pee Ridge Day, the famed Arkansas hog caller, formerly with the Brooklyn Club, worked out with the Nats yesterday. He was injured last year on the elbow of his salary wing and this season has been with the Baltimore Orioles. When an operation was needed on his arm, he was made a free agent. He is now working the flipper back into condition and looking for a job.

Goose Goslin made a fine catch at Bing Miller's expense in the second, grabbing the ball after a long run almost on the foul-line against the fence.

Tris Speaker recently resigned the berth as Manager at Kansas City and reports are going the rounds that he is slated to succeed Roger Peckinpaugh as chief of the Cleveland Indians.

Stewart issued three passes and all hurt him. The one he gave Cochrane in the fifth moved Miller to second and he completed the cycle a base at a time after the catch of long flies. He issued two in the next frame and both were turned into runs.

The A's claimed that Dave Harris left third before Johnson's catch of Boken's fly in the eighth but Umpire Owens did not see things this way.

Walker and Brouillard Battle in Boston July 6

Boston, May 28 (U.P.).—Two former world's welterweight champions, Mickey Walker, of Rumson, N. J., and Lou Brouillard, of Worcester, have been matched to meet at Boston Garden July 6, Matchmaker Billy Ames announced tonight.

Contracts have been signed for the men to meet at 168 pounds, but they are expected to scale nearer 164 pounds.

BELANGER PICKED TO STOP BARRY AT PORTNER'S TONIGHT

Fans Offered 30 Rounds On Card

Bob Tow Will Meet Herman Weiner in Semiwindup.

Kersey Will Battle Wright and Horn Faces Dizon.

DONALD (RED) BARRY, Washington's youthful aspirant for heavyweight honors, gets another one of his home-coming receptions tonight at Portner's Arena, Alexandria, where he meets Charley Belanger, Canadian champion, in the feature bout of a 30-round boxing program.

Barry and Belanger will step eight rounds in the first main match to be staged on a Monday night since the reformed brewery plant swung open its doors last fall.

The Washington boy will fly down from New York. He is expected at Hoover Airport at 6:50. Accompanying him will be Morris Kane, Bill McCarney's right-hand man. McCarney and Joe Jacobs have an interest in Barry.

Never Knocked Out In Career.

Though new to this section, Belanger is well known nationally. Holder of both the light-heavy and heavyweight titles in his country, Belanger has been an attraction in prize rings from Coast to Coast, and has appeared numerous times at Chicago Stadium and Madison Square Garden. He is a veteran of more than 200 fights and his record shows that he has never been knocked out.

Belanger, who arrived yesterday afternoon, will be handled by Jimmy Erwin and Scotty Strachan, the latter of Detroit, Mich.

Tonight's supporting card brings into action some pretty good scrappers. Bob Tow, Alexandria bus driver, will engage Herman Weiner, Baltimore heavyweight, in an eight-round semiwindup.

Kersey to Meet Wright.

Harry Kersey, conqueror of Bob Lowry and Billy Essinger, meets Carey Wright in a six-rounder; Tommy Horn, Baltimore, faces Young Dizon, Filipino, in a four-rounder; while Barefoot Green, Fredericksburg, takes on Joe Marfield, Baltimore, in the opening four-rounder at 8:30.

It was announced by Abe Martin, Portner's backer, that electric fans have been installed in the arena.

BOXING BIT'S SELECTIONS—Belanger to beat Barry, Tow to beat Weiner, Wright to beat Kersey, Horn to beat Dizon, and Marfield to beat Green.

Dempsey Reminds of Old In Stirring Test With Baer

Clouts Laughing "Foe" in One Round, Slows Down and Is Doubled Up by Hard Left Hook; 2,000 See Exhibition.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 28 (A.P.).—On old fellow with a paunchy stomach, a faint memory of the great Jack Dempsey, still had enough left in his fighting system today to show Max Baer just why "Iron Mike," most famous of all left hooks, was the most feared weapon in the heavyweight prize ring half a dozen years ago.

Fulfilling his promise to test personally the fighting ability of the two men he has pitted in the Yankee Stadium June 8, the old champion took on Baer for two lurid minutes in the sun-scorched ring on the same amusement field where he trained for his international duel with Georges Carpentier in 1921.

Yesterday Dempsey battled Max Schmeling, Baer's rival, for one bristling, even round in the German's training camp at Lake Swannanoa.

Old Johnno today was anything but the trim, merciless savage who smashed down the orchid man of France 14 years ago, but for a minute and a half he clouted the laughing, 210-pound Baer with left hooks to the head, drew blood from his nose, chased him around the ramshackle ring, and in general brought worried lines to the faces of his partners in the precarious business of fight promotion.

For 90 seconds Dempsey did this, with Baer clowning, backing up, covering, never throwing a punch. Then the strenuous life he has been living told on the old champion. He slowed down and started wheezing. Baer came out of his shell and threw a hard left hook to Dempsey's middle-aged stomach. Jack doubled up, puffed in close and then gladly called it a day as the seconds shouted "time."

But all in all, with a crowd of 2,000 cheering him on in his old surroundings, celebrities of another day looking on from the side lines, it was one of the most stirring exhibitions of Dempsey's career.

Ernie Miller Is First In 3-Mile Canoe Race

Leaving the veteran Harry Knight in the watery dust of the Potomac, Ernie Miller, Potomac Boat Club paddler, yesterday upset the dope around Key Bridge to cross the finish line first in a gruelling 3-mile single-blade canoe race.

Miller beat out George Shorb by a length in 33 minutes 20 seconds, the latter making the distance in 33 minutes and 30 seconds. Both men represented the Potomac Boat Club, as did John Long, who was third. The veteran Knight, of Washington Canoe Club, was fourth, and William Rhodes, of Potomac Boat Club, fifth. There were five other entries. This is the second of a three-race series.

Best District Amateurs in Golf Trials

Columbia Will Stage 4th District Event on August 8.

By DAVE HERMAN.

NOTICES sent out by the United States Golf Association yesterday call attention to the sectional qualifying rounds for the national amateur championship scheduled on 23 fronts, including Washington, on August 8.

Only golfers who are members of clubs affiliated with the U. S. G. A. and who have a club rating of four strokes or less are eligible to compete in the divisional trials.

Washington is listed in the fourth district, with the rolling Columbia Country Club course serving as the battle ground.

Best Players Hereabouts Seek Berths.

Practically all outstanding players from clubs in Virginia, Maryland and the District are expected to enter the qualifying test at Columbia. The number of places to be allotted this section will be determined by the number of entries received. The deadline for sending in entries is July 20.

Last August in the qualifying rounds at Chevy Chase, 88 golfers competed for 19 places. Nine Washington golfers, six from Baltimore, three from Virginia and one from Pennsylvania made the grade. Chandler Harper, of Portsmouth, Va., was the pace-setter.

One hundred and fifty players will make up the field in the championship proper, scheduled at the Kenwood Country Club, Cincinnati, Ohio, September 11-16. From 500 to 600 are expected to enter the divisional trials, which will be held over the 36-hole route.

Only C. Ross Somerville, of Canada, who beat Johnny Goodman in the finals last year at Five Farms for the championship, is exempt from qualifying.

The U. S. G. A. will award a medal to the player in each district winning first place in the elimination tests.

Auth Winner As Deaver Fans 21

De Molay Routed by 13-0; Feary Leads With Four Hits.

AUTH'S made an auspicious debut in the senior division of the Capital City League, swamping DeMolay under a deluge of base hits to win in easy fashion by a score of 13-0. The losers never threatened and Auth's amassed a sufficient lead in the first three innings to win.

Deaver's hurling featured the game. The big fellow held rival batsmen to four widely scattered hits and retired 21 on strikes. Willie Feary, who also boxes a little, led the winning attack, which added up to eighteen hits, with four safeties in five trips to the tee.

NATS RALLY IN 8TH TO BEAT MACKMEN

really perfect two-base muff of Cronin's fly. Then Dave Harris brought Cronin home with a single and Luke Sewell scored Harris with a well-rapped double to right.

Philadelphia, runless for four innings, got a run back in the fifth when Miller singled and advanced home by easy stages on a walk and flies by Higgins and Cihocki. But the Nats recovered the tally in their half of the inning on Kuhel's safe bunt and singles by Goslin and Cronin.

Stewart let the ball game slip from his grasp in the sixth. Williams hit for Bishop and singled. Cramer forced him, but Stewart walked Johnson. He struck Coleman out, but walked Miller to fill the bases, and Cochrane cleared them with a double to center that Dave Harris fiddled with long enough to let three score. Al Thomas halted this uprising.

Came the Nats' eighth and six hits and four runs.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

For further proof address the author, inclosing a stamped envelope for reply. Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

DAVID G. REEDER, blind Los Angeles, Calif., salesman, finds working jig-saw puzzles just as much fun as do people with sight. Not worried about what color goes where, Mr. Reeder systematically puts the pieces that fit together as fast as the average jig-saw fan.

Guided only by touch, he sorts out the border pieces first, then begins with one corner and builds his completed puzzle from that point. Strange as it seems, Mr. Reeder finds the interlocking type easier than the old-fashioned jig-saw puzzle. He requires four to five hours to piece together a 300-piece puzzle, whereas the average fan can work the same puzzle in from three hours to three weeks, depending on how confusing the colors are.

Mr. Reeder, who holds a bachelor of arts degree from the University of Southern California, does not consider himself blind. "I am merely sightless," he says, "not blind."

Rice, which is the staple food in many parts of China, will grow well only in well-watered areas. Much of Northern China is not suited to the culture of rice, and, because of poor transportation facilities, there are millions of Chinese who have never tasted it.

The second husband of Napoleon's first wife, Josephine, was Napoleon himself.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

CAPITAL WILL HONOR DEAD TOMORROW AT MEMORIAL SERVICES

Roosevelt to Attend Rites in Arlington; Swanson and Dern Speak.

The Nation tomorrow ceases its workaday whirl to honor its dead and as flower-laden millions tread a path of reverence to the graves of their kin, President Roosevelt will attend Memorial Day services at Arlington National Cemetery.

All through yesterday's warm sunshine, memorial services were held in harmony with the coming day of tribute to those who have passed on in war and in peace.

A twilight service was held last night at Arlington Cemetery in homage to military nurses. This service was under auspices of Jay Delano Post of the American Legion, and the principal address was delivered by Maj. Gen. Amos A. Fries, retired.

Services at Mount Olivet.

Mount Olivet Cemetery was also the scene of a tribute to soldier dead. Organizations participating included Lincoln Camp, Sons of Union Veterans; Pettit Camp, United Spanish War Veterans; E. S. Mussey Tent of the Daughters of Union Veterans; Costello Post of the American Legion and Washington General Assembly of Fourth Degree Knights of Columbus.

At Washington Hebrew Congregation Cemetery, services were held yesterday in tribute to Jewish soldiers who lost their lives in military service. The principal address was delivered by Representative Paul J. Kvale, of Minnesota. The Jewish War Veterans and American Legion posts arranged the ceremony.

For the first time in many years, the President and the Secretaries of War and Navy will attend Arlington memorial services, under auspices of the Grand Army of the Republic Memorial Day Corporation. The President will not speak, but Secretaries Dern and Swanson will deliver addresses.

Yaden Will Preside.

James G. Yaden, president of the Memorial Day Corporation, will be the presiding officer at the main exercises in the amphitheater.

Prior to the exercises, wreaths will be placed at the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in ceremonies by the District Departments of the Disabled American Veterans, American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars.

More than 100 relatives of heroes of the storm-struck Akron will come to Arlington tomorrow to do honor at the fresh graves.

The exercises at Arlington will begin at 12:45 p. m. with the sounding of assembly by the Marine Band bugler. Throughout the ceremonies which will include patriotic recitations, national songs and the Cabinet addresses, the Marine Band will interpolate appropriate compositions.

Navy Band to Play.

At 10 a. m. tomorrow exercises will be held at Hains Point under the auspices of Robert E. Peary Ship of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. The Navy Band will play and an anchor of poppies presented to the post by Secretary Swanson will be cast into the Potomac.

At Battleground Cemetery, Secretary of Commerce Roper will deliver a tribute to Civil War dead. These exercises, arranged by the Grand Army of the Republic and the Brightwood Citizens Association, will commence at 3:15 p. m.

Vincent B. Costello, first employe of the District killed in action during the World War, will be honored tomorrow morning at memorial services at the grave in Arlington Cemetery.

Speakers will include Norman B. Landreau, department commander of the District of Columbia American Legion; the Rev. Father Ignatius Fealy, of Catonsville, Md., and Representative Paul J. Kvale, of Minnesota. Musical selections will conclude the exercises.

WAR ON ALL FAITHS CHARGED TO MEXICO

Baptists Told New Educational Program Eliminates Religious Teaching.

Mexico is attempting to suppress all forms of Christianity, Dr. C. D. Dawson, supervisor of a mission hospital in Puebla Pue, declared yesterday at the closing session of the Northern Baptist Convention at Washington Auditorium.

What the government will substitute for Christianity or religion is not yet apparent, Dr. Dawson said, but it is indicated that Mexico intends to follow the footsteps of Soviet Russia's campaign against all religious movements.

He said Mexico recently launched an extensive educational program void of religious teachings, and that there is an apparent ack of confidence in any enterprise that speaks of religion.

Speaking on the relationship between Mexico and the United States, Dr. Dawson declared that Mexico looks upon this country as a "dangerous benefactor" and resents the invasion of American controlled business.

Burma Native Speaks.

He concluded his address with a plea for additional missionary work in Mexico to stem the tide of anti-religion "which has become so apparent in the last few months."

In contrast to the report of Dr. Dawson was the address of the Rev. Sau Chit Maung, of Burma, India, who declared that Christianity is fast vanquishing the remark of Rudyard Kipling that "East is East and West is West and Never the Twain Shall Meet." Youthful in both years and appearance, Maung was applauded heavily at the conclusion of his talk.

Describing his early youth and his impressions of Burmese, Maung said that during his own lifetime he has seen Christianity make tremendous gains in India and mainly predicated his East-West prophesy on this observation.

Speaking on the subject of missions, Frank W. Padelford declared that the interest of American Christians in world missions is dying out.

Mission Funds Decline.

"The attitude of the people has become more critical; the giving of our people has declined steadily year by year since the close of the war, and the number of recruits for missionary service has been growing less and less until it has become almost impossible to find a sufficient number of qualified men and women who are willing to make the great adventure," he said.

He told the large audience it is his belief that lack of interest in missions is also due to "our changed views about the future, and the loss of the conviction that men must know Christ or spend a miserable eternity."

Mission Plea Voiced.

Speakers at the evening session were Mrs. W. A. Petzoldt, of Lodge Grass, Mont., missionary to the Crow Indians, and the Rev. Joseph C. Robbins, of New York, who has been a missionary in India for several years.

Both speakers warned against curtailment of the missionary work of the church and stressed the need of more missionaries in foreign service.

The meeting was conducted by President Franklin W. Johnson, of Colby College. It was opened with a special song service. Prayer was given by the Rev. Rivington D. Lord, of New York.

MYSTERIOUS SHOTS FLY IN APARTMENT

Police Find Place Vacant; Hacker Tells of Fleeing Pair Using Pistol.

A reported shooting at 2421 Pennsylvania avenue northwest last night led police to a hurriedly vacated apartment at that address which had evidently been the scene of a hijacking or a fight.

Although neighbors said that they heard several shots fired on the premises, no bullet holes were found in the walls or furniture, but the plate glass in the front door was found smashed. A number of bottles of alleged liquor and home brew was seized by police.

Howard E. Poole, 3042 Cambridge place northwest, said two men boarded his cab at the corner near the apartment and told him to drive up L street to Sixth and G streets northwest. When he remonstrated about the route being a one-way street, he stated that one of the men drew a revolver and told him "keep driving and don't know anything."

Poole stated that they fired two shots from the rear of the cab, but that he was unable to tell whether they were firing at a pursuing vehicle or a pedestrian.

They ordered him to stop at New Hampshire avenue and L street northwest and left his cab. Police sent a lookout for two other cabs which were said by passersby to have taken other occupants of the apartment away from the scene.

Two Hurt as Street Car and Auto Hit

Two young women were seriously injured yesterday when the automobile in which they were riding was in collision with a Washington Railway & Electric Co. street car at Massachusetts avenue and G street northwest.

Police said the machine, driven by Miss Katherine Cohen, 30, of 1223 Holbrook street northeast, crashed into a street car operated by Frank Matthews, of 217 P street northwest.

A passenger in Miss Cohen's car, Miss Louise Klein, 20, of 1220 Thirtieth street northwest, suffered a fractured jaw, fractured nose and possible fracture of the skull. Miss Cohen received severe lacerations to her face and body. Both were treated at Casualty Hospital, and later removed to Gallinger Hospital.

Youth Is Shot in Elbow In Playing With Friend

Joseph King, 20, of Wellington, Va., was shot in the right elbow with a 22-caliber bullet from a gun in the hands of Newton Donaldson, 14, of 420 East Capitol street, while playing at the East Capitol street address yesterday afternoon.

King was taken to Casualty Hospital where the bullet was removed. His condition was said not to be serious and he was returned to his friend's home.

VATICAN DELEGATE GIVEN GREETING BY CEREMONY AT C. U.

2,000 Hear Welcome Talks for New Representative of Pontiff.

Formal welcome to the Most Rev. Amelto Giovanni Cicognani, recently appointed apostolic delegate to the United States, was given yesterday at the National Shrine of the Immaculate Conception at Catholic University.

The ceremonies, witnessed by more than 2,000 persons, began with a colorful procession of faculty and students, representing 32 religious orders. The faculty of the university were garbed in academic costume.

Music was furnished by the Glee Club of the Catholic University, under the direction of Dr. Leo Behrendt. The "Ecce Sacerdos" was sung as the delegate entered the shrine.

Dr. Ryan's Address.

Making the principal address of welcome, the Rev. Dr. James H. Ryan, rector of the university, said:

"In my own name, in that of the faculties and student body of the university, I bid you welcome to Washington. Representing as you do in person, the Holy Father, we receive you with all the reverence and respect due the august pontiff himself.

"Few popes have so powerfully impressed themselves on the life of the church and of the world as has Pius XI. To represent him is indeed an exalted honor, a tremendous task. No part of Christian thought or life has escape the influence of the reigning Pope.

"Your excellency not only does not come as a stranger to the United States; you are not a stranger to university life, its needs, its problems, its successes and its failures. * * * You have gained by your own experience an invaluable insight into academic problems; you will lend a sympathetic ear to all that makes for the upbuilding of Catholic education in this country. I know we do not presume when we say that our university and its welfare will always be dear to your fatherly heart, as it is to the heart of the common Father of all of us."

Archbishop's Welcome.

Also speaking as a member of the welcoming committee, the Most Rev. Dr. Michael J. Curley, Archbishop of Baltimore, said:

"I have no commission, of course, to be the spokesman of 20,000,000 Catholics in this Nation. Yet I believe no one will object when I say that our respect and reverence and cordial welcome will be duplicated in every diocese of the country.

"You have come to a nation with a soul still sound despite our much discussed materialism and seeming absorption in mundane things. Here you will find faith as deep and real and as abiding as ever actuated the aged peasant who at eventide, home returning, pours out his soul in fervent prayer before some loved shrine of the Madonna on the rural roadside."

In his response, Archbishop Cicognani expressed the sentiments of the Holy Father on the occasion of the delegate's last audience and expressed a deep interest in the Catholic University.

Reception at Library.

"As I stand in this beautiful shrine, which is being erected in honor of the Immaculate Mother of God, the patroness of the United States, my heart is filled with sentiments of profound gratitude for the gracious and cordial welcome accorded me by the bishops, priests, religious and the Catholic laity of the country," he said.

"* * * For the rest, I trust that with the grace of God and the prayers of all, I shall be able to repay in some measure my debt of gratitude by the fulfillment of my duties and by my feeble prayers, that Almighty God may shower His choicest blessings on America and her people and that He may increase in each and every one of us the knowledge and love of Jesus Christ."

After the address of the delegate, a reception was held in his honor in the Mullen Library of the university.

25,000 See Massing of Colors At Cathedral for Wars' Heroes

Pershing Heads Throng at Impressive Rite of Military Order.

By ELISABETH E. POE.

Headed by Gen. John J. Pershing, 25,000 persons gathered on the green slopes of the amphitheater in Washington Cathedral Close yesterday afternoon in a great massing of the colors service sponsored by the Military Order of the World War to pay tribute to the memory of America's brave in all wars.

Thousands of American flags, battle flags and standards of 98 patriotic organizations were carried by uniformed men and women in the colorful procession which preceded the service. This procession assembled in the Cathedral Close and marched down the Pilgrim Steps and into the amphitheater, where the flags were massed around an outdoor altar in the center of which was a huge wooden cross with masses of red June roses artistically arranged at its base.

Lesson Read by Delafield.

The service was attended by one of the largest congregations which has assembled on Mount Saint Alban's in recent years, including representatives of the Diplomatic Corps, the President's Cabinet, high ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and distinguished leaders in civil life in the National Capital. The sermon was preached by the Right Rev. Dr. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington. The Rev. Dr. O. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of Washington Cathedral, acted as master of ceremonies. The lesson was read by Brig. Gen. John Ross Delafield, of New York, commander in chief of the Military Order of the World War.

Urging that the religious forces of the Nation be mobilized by its leaders to help solve present problems and strengthen the national morale, Bishop Freeman, in a stirring address, declared that the "Church as a potential force is not reckoned with as a factor in the work of rehabilitation, nor is it adequately appraised as an indispensable agency."

"The Church," he continued, "should be summoned to align its forces, to consolidate them for the mighty work of restoring the morale of the Nation now so tragically impaired. New laws, relief and emergency measures will all do their part in easing the strain, but alone they will not heal permanently the Nation's maladies. Let us not commit the folly of attempting to rebuild our shattered institutions through cleverly devised mechanical agencies, else we shall be adding to our confusion and suffer more ills."

National Morale Declines.

In carrying out this theme the bishop asserted that there has been a decline in national morale and a relaxation in standards that in other critical periods have been the stay and support of the Nation.

"This Nation has never shown its finest qualities when skies were cloudless and the pursuit of selfish ways was the quest of its people," Bishop Freeman asserted in the course of his remarks. "We do not develop the sinews of the body, nor yet of the soul when indulgence and ease are the common practice of life.

"With pride we point to days in our history when men's souls were tried as in a furnace. From such days we witness a development that has made our Nation what it is."

Pershing Makes Address.

Attired in full uniform, Gen. Pershing marched in the procession beside Bishop Freeman as a member of the Cathedral Chapter and gave a brief greeting.

"The real strength of the Nation rests on the religious sentiment of the citizens," he declared. "When I was a cadet at West Point, in the old chapel where we used to attend Sunday service, I recall the inscription 'Righteousness Exalteth a Nation.' That thought has come back to me with redoubled form, for one can not stand on this sacred spot and look into the faces of this vast assemblage without being deeply stirred by the spiritual emotion which underlies all true patriotism."

"Good citizenship itself is dependent upon the high sense of moral obligations of our people, of our electors and of our representatives," he continued. "The basis of that obligation is the moral teaching of religion. To my mind, Christianity is the bulwark of the whole structure. Whatever theories of government we support are really founded upon the conception of Christianity bequeathed to us by our forefathers and fashioned from the trials and difficulties through which they passed in the early days of the Nation's history. Their faith never wavered. Religion meant something to them."

President's Message.

A letter was read to the congregation by Bishop Freeman from President Roosevelt in which he expressed his regret at not being able to attend the service. Prayers for the President and all those in civil authority, for the country and for the people were offered by Chaplain Howard E. Snyder, of the Military Order. The Rev. Arlington A. McCallum, chaplain general of the order, conducted the commemoration "for all those who have laid down their lives in the service of our country." Taps was sounded by Sergt. Witchey, of the United States Cavalry, who had acted as bugler at the burial of the Unknown Soldier in Arlington National Cemetery. Music was furnished by the United States Marine Band with Capt. Taylor Branson conducting and the Cathedral Choir of men and boys under direction of Edgar Priest, organist and choirmaster.

Costello Post, American Legion, Drum and Bugle Corps played for the procession of the patriotic organizations.

Bishop Freeman Holds Religion Is Needed in Recovery Task.

"Education is the adversary of all three of the great enemies of life," stated Dr. Allen A. Stockdale, last night delivering the baccalaureate sermon to the Washington College of Law at the First Congregational Church.

"These three great symbolical enemies are deserts, swamps and ruts. Deserts are dry, foodless, waterless, treeless, flowerless areas of monotonous sands, burning thirst and no satisfaction—and they are the enemies of the finest life. Then there are swamps of mud, water, green scum, mosquitoes, malaria, stagnant odors, mired failure. Those are places where you feel you are just stuck and have no ability to go backward or to go forward. Ruts—long, deep, determined, with no possibility to change the course nor go a new and better way to a more interesting and more valuable destination. A rut is just an extended grave—a thing that makes for unhappiness to the person in it and for those who depend upon the person in it. Ruts as symbolical enemies to life are exceedingly tragic.

"Education is intended to lift life out of the symbolical deserts, the mire and mud of the swamp and out of the ruts. I somewhat envy you your opportunities along three lines, if I can understand anything of your area at all. First, your opportunity to trace the way through to the evidences of life, second to think your way through the tangles of life and third, to speak your way through to the convictions of truth.

"But get to the fundamentals—home, garden, nature, companions with genial spirits, worth-while minds, dependable characters. Take time to live in the love and affection of somebody's heart. Lawyers will be needed in the future to work out the problems of more leisure hours produced by a machine age.

"Some world's are not worth while—an overrushed world, an overexcited world, an overcrowded world, and an overburdened world. The new education must produce both safe and inspiring leaders as well as obedient and effective followers.

"I commission you and ordain you as the profession of a happier day, a day of common sense, intimate fellowship, beauty-loving and spiritually minded. Let not the world in its organization rob you of the things that God intended you to enjoy."

CATHOLIC MAY DAY PARADES ARE HELD AT FOUR CHURCHES

Blessed Virgin Venerated by Large Groups of Children in Columns.

Pomp marked May Day processionals held by four Catholic churches yesterday.

Divisions symbolizing the 15 mysteries of the Blessed Virgin led the march at the St. Francis Xavier Church. Children in the first division, representing the mysteries, were garbed in white and carried white flowers with golden bows.

The sorrowful mysteries were represented by a division carrying orchids and wearing orchid dresses. The children in the procession symbolizing the joyful mysteries carried red wreaths. Boys representing the Litany of Loretto carried blue banners.

A male guard of honor escorted a large American flag carried by altar boys. A division of men marched behind a Holy Name banner and carried a statue of the Blessed Virgin enshrined in a bower of flowers. This group was followed by children dressed as angels.

Virgin Services Subject.

Miss Elizabeth Bowles was the May queen and had 24 attendants. The Rev. Joseph V. Buckley, pastor of the church, preached on "Why the Blessed Virgin Mary is Entitled to Our Honor and Veneration." The services were closed by benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament, celebrated by the Rev. Peter Rakowski.

Each division in the processional held by the Holy Trinity Church was dressed in accordance with a color scheme adapted from spring flowers they carried. The march was led by a large group of children who had made their first communion. Several hundred students of the Holy Trinity School followed in the march.

The celebration was organized and directed by the Sisters of Mercy. A large delegation of the Holy Name Society participated in the procession and the Elks Boys' Band rendered several selections.

Queen Chosen by Merit.

Miss Margaret Mary O'Connor was chosen May queen because of her high scholastic standing. Joseph Smith and Miles Torreyson acted as her train bearers. Thomas O'Neil was prince of the procession.

Miss Martha Davis, May queen in the processional of the St. Paul's Church, was followed by seven attendants while twenty children carrying white roses formed a guard for the queen.

The Rev. Cornelius Dacey, pastor of the church, delivered the sermon. Sixty altar boys wearing white satin costumes with red satin sashes participated in the march. Forty-first communion recipients also paraded. The Sodality girls were dressed in white and carried blue flowers.

More than 600 children were in the column at the processional of St. Cyprian's Church. Lillian Curtis was the May queen and was attended by Irene Smith and Dorothy Boule. Alfreda Miles and Helen Curtis acted as train bearers for the queen.

The girls in the processional carried banners inscribed with the Mysteries of the Rosary. The march was led by altar boys carrying the processional cross. The Rev. Henry P. Graebenstein delivered the sermon.
